Harvest Dinner

On a late October weeknight, the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association (BMNA) hosts its Share the Harvest Festival at Bryn Mawr Elementary School. It's a potluck dinner but BMNA provides cooked turkeys and/or chicken. Fall is harvest time; a time of bounty created by hard work. It is a time to gather and enjoy the change of season and to celebrate while the leaves swirl in the autumn breeze. Activities in addition to eating and sharing conversation include a pumpkin carving contest, carnival-type booths, and a kids costume contest. The BMNA also collects non-perishable food items for a local food shelf.
