Sip & Stroll 2017

Our 9th Annual BMNA Sip and Stroll event had perfect weather this year and our highest attendance of neighbors. 15 of our wonderful businesses participated, 127 neighbors visited every participating business and 23 prizes were donated by our businesses. Our businesses rolled out the red carpet for our neighbors and showed everyone how much they appreciate our business. Our local businesses are the back bone of our neighborhood. Thank you neighbors and business owners for strengthening our community. *This event is organized by the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association.

Street Sweeping is coming! Go to <http://www.ci.minneapolis.mn.us/publicworks/streetsweeping/index.htm> for specific information. Reminder to our neighbors, please do not sweep your leaves into the street. It is a violation of city ordinance.

The Minneapolis Municipal Election happens Nov 7th. Absentee voting is occurring now. Last day to pre-register to vote is October 17th. Voting for our neighborhood occurs at the school. There will be a seminar on rank choice voting hosted by Lowry Hill Neighborhood.

We have had several instances recently of break-ins in the neighborhood. Bryn Mawr is in the 4th Precinct and it is one of the safest in Minneapolis; however, crime does happen. Lisa introduced the Inspector Biard who in charge of crime reduction for Minneapolis. Inspector Biard gave a recap of the break-ins and burglaries in the neighborhood.

Aaron Biard grew up in Minneapolis including living in Bryn Mawr for a short time. He still has friends and family in the neighborhood. Minneapolis watches the crime patterns closely to identify trends and patterns.

There were nine reported burglaries in Bryn Mawr in the last three months. They have identified a pattern of convenient entry. Two burglaries involved garages that were left open, several burglaries involved a house had an unlocked back door. Three were entered through the rear, and two have suspect information. Most occurrences are happening during the day. At each of these occurrences, the MPLS crime lab is called and forensic evidence including fingerprints have been collected.

MPD suggests you be vigilant, know your neighbors, and lock your doors. Most occurrences can be prevented just by locking your doors.

Rowena Holmes, CPS, spoke on and distributed information on the important role of Block Leaders. Block Leaders can get involved in helping prevent crime as well as providing neighbors with an individual to turn to with concerns to be addressed by the City. To help prevent crimes of convenience, Rowena suggests having a neighbor pick up your package, deliver it to your place of business, or ask the shipping company to hold the package. Good common sense can help prevent crime. Interested parties can contact Rowena directly at 612.673.2833 to learn more about becoming a Block Leader.

Anna Collins spoke up about a concerning incident occurring in Bryn Mawr. There was a discussion about verbal harassment from kids in the neighborhood who appear to be leaving Anwatan. The City and the Police take this behavior seriously and will consider the matter.

George Warzinik introduced himself as 4th Precinct Patrol. He expressed that calls from Bryn Mawr are taken very seriously and encourages residents to continue to call if there is suspicious activity.

Alyson Quinn thanked the BMNA for their support of the summer nature pre-school. Quinn is President of Minneapolis Nature Preschool. She completed a summer camp program and is planning a full preschool for Fall 2018. Nature-based means approximately 50% of the time will be outdoors. Camp will be held January for ages 4-6. Interested parties can reach out at www.MinneapolisNaturePreschool.org.

Sophia Ginis discussed topics related to SWLRT. They are currently eliciting initial feedback on the aesthetic direction of the proposed wall. <https://metro council.org/Transportation/Projects/Current-Projects/Southwest-LRT.aspx>. Walking tours of the actual route are being given to provide neighborhood residents with a real-life view of where the tracks will run.

Sophia provided a review of the environmental review process which includes both NEPA (National Environment) and state MEPA. The results of the findings should be available to the public by the end of the year.

Barry Schade spoke in support of a petition to encourage the Met Council to perform an EAW (Environmental Assessment Worksheet) of the proposed wall. The process for approval of this wall was done out of step with the standard approval process. He believes it is important for Bryn Mawr to relay that our officials should follow the standard process for important changes such as this.

Barry Schade moved to have BMNA petition the Met Council to perform an EAW. Seconded. Motion carried. The full petition will be available on BMNA.org for review.

Patty Wycoff gave the Neighborhood Coordinator Report via email. Everything is ready for the Sip and Stroll. Interest has been high and we expect a good turnout. Membership collected another $900 in membership dues. The next event is the Harvest Dinner on November 16th. Volunteers needed to help cook turkeys. More information can be found at bmna.org/events.

JoEllyn Jolstad gave the Bugle Report via email. Joanne Michalec has volunteered to write next month's article. December is still available. Contact JoEllyn if you'd like to volunteer to write an article.

From the Editor

November is here with all its chilliness and threats of snow and soon it will be Thanksgiving. At home and abroad, the past year has been filled with violence, natural disasters and a marked departure from civility. Still in my small bubble of a world, there are many things for which to be grateful.

At work, a senior I know from the theatre program who is now an Eagle Scout candidate, built some amazing storage units so I can create a small costume shop in the basement of the school. I cannot wait bring the Costume Crew students into this teaching space to work on the upcoming winter show. It is truly wonderful when two passions collide in such a magical way.

I am grateful to have a job where I can be innovative and push back against the status quo and I really appreciate the way our son tells me he believes in me and my dreams.

I'm thankful that our 26 year-old knows she can still ask me to make dragon costumes for her and her roommates who are hosting a Halloween party on Saturday. I am glad I have time these days to do such a fun project and forever grateful that my mother signed me up for sewing lessons at the YMCA all those years ago.

I am grateful that our youngest is settling into college and soon she will be home for a six day break. We are travelling to Chicago to see her perform in a couple of weeks and I am so excited.

When I think of all the choices in I have made through the years, it seems incredible how well life has worked out for me. My husband of 31 years, our fabulous children, our big 100 year-old house and this amazing neighborhood.

Last Tuesday, Cuppa Java donated a portion of its sales to Anwatin Middle School. I have said many times how lucky I feel that I could send my students to this diverse inner city school right in our back yard. But I am also thankful to have so many lovely businesses a short walk away.

And no pre-holiday gratitude rant would be complete without a shout-out to all the incredible people I have met in Bryn Mawr. From the teachers, our children's classmates and their parents, the shopkeepers who open their doors for an evening of Sipping and Strolling, to the BMNA colleagues who call you up on a Tuesday night to ask if you want to share a meal and a bottle of wine at the local coffee shop.

Happy Thanksgiving!

Bugle Notes

Area 6

You may remember seeing Ron Wagner of Area 6 on his recumbent bike ... or may remember his monthly ad in the Bugle for his handyman services. Ron, who had lived in Bryn Mawr for more than 30 years, died June 30 at age 82, at the Minnesota Veterans Home. He is survived by his wife, Annetta Bray-Wagner, four children, eight grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren.

Ron grew up in Tracy, Minnesota and served in the U.S. Air Force in Japan, where he was a flight controller and was active in sports. He later was a police officer in Los Angeles and served as chief of police in Oakdale, MN.

He was a runner, competing in marathons, and later took up bicycling. He held a record for 3,000 meter bicycle races in his age category and was a time trial winner on Route 66 in New Mexico.

Annetta continues her active life in Bryn Mawr, where she has many friends.

- November 4, 2017 Full moon, the Dakota Takiyuha Wi, or deer rutting moon.
- November 12, 2016 Many large piles of corn on the ground next to grain elevators in southern Minnesota, as the harvest far exceeded storage capacity. State records set for both corn (1.52 billion bushels) and soybeans due to regular but not excessive rainfall, an early spring, and a warm dry fall.
- November 17, 2015 Picked 43 green tomatoes and 1 ripe one from my backyard garden. They haven't grown or ripened much in the last month (tomatoes need warmth). I planted disease-resistant varieties this year and had no problems with early die-off. Check the labels when you shop for the symbols "V" and "F" or the words "disease resistant".
- November 19, 2016 Low 27°, the latest first frost ever recorded at MSP. The growing season of 220 days last year is more typical of Dallas.

Creative Crosswalks Project

BMNA has funded the Creative Crosswalks Project. Once approved by the City of Minneapolis this project should be completed by the end of summer 2018. Beth Turnbull and Joanne Michalec are co-chairing this effort. Team members include Alisa Eland, Joan Kelly, Betsy Nelson, Ross Rezac, Marty Skoro, and Eric Wilson. This project is intended to engage the Bryn Mawr Community. Painting a design on the sidewalk will enhance the neighborhood and hopefully slow down traffic at that location. The tentative site is the triangle garden at corners of Cedar, Oliver, and Laurel. Graphic artists Marty Skoro and Ross Rezac will create the design. Once the project is approved we will be looking for volunteers to assist with the painting. Stay tuned for future updates.

- Founded the city's Affordable Housing Trust Fund, providing gap funding for housing that serves people earning 30-50% of the metro-wide median income.
- Pushed the city to invest in environmental infrastructure, such as constructing green roofs on the Target Center, Central Library, and City Hall, and the largest solar array in the Upper Midwest at the Minneapolis Convention Center.

Parks History

The Beginning

In 1856, with a population of 1,555, the Town of Minneapolis was incorporated. In 1857, one year before New York City had its first park, Edward Murphy donated three and one-third acres of land to the town for that purpose.

Minneapolis and the Village of St. Anthony merged in 1872 to form one city with a population of 21,014. Both municipalities had been active in trying to develop public parks where people could gather to listen to music, celebrate holidays, or simply escape for a while.

By the 1880s a movement was sweeping the U.S. which advocated public parks in densely populated areas as a necessity to people's well being. In 1882 the city council began to provide funds for the purchase of land and a year later an election and a legislative act established the Minneapolis system of parks and a board of park commissioners. The population was then more than 96,000.

Charles M. Loring

Charles Loring, along with a group of other wealthy Minneapolis residents, led the fight for a system of public parks in Minneapolis.

Loring had lived in Minneapolis for 20 years when he was appointed the first president of the newly formed park commission. He became known as "the father of the Minneapolis parks system."

Cedar Lake

During the 1870s Cedar Lake was the regional hot spot for boating and fishing parties. An octagon-shaped hotel called the Oak Grove House was on the southwest side, while Stetson's Cedar Lake Park resort graced the eastern shore.

By 1908, when the park board began buying up the land around the lake, all of the red cedars (for which the lake was named) had died or had been cut down. One of the park board's first projects for Cedar Lake was to restore the trees.

At the end of 1911, the first of a series of dredging contracts was let. Coarse gravel made the work slow and difficult. In 1914, work was begun on a canal that could connect Brownie and Cedar. In 1917, navigation between the four lakes became a reality--Brownie, Cedar, Isles, and Calhoun were now linked.

The dredging and digging had taken six years. The dredging had cost $46,417.48, and the canal to Brownie had cost $6,452.55.

This was originally printed in December of 1992.

Superintendent Presents Proposed 2018 MPRB Budget

Public comment opportunities scheduled Nov. 1, 15, 29 and Dec. 6

MPRB Superintendent Jayne Miller presented her recommended 2018 budget at tonight's Board meeting and that there are opportunities to review and comment on it.

The Superintendent's Recommended 2018 Budget for the Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board (MPRB) focuses on maintenance, rehabilitation and capital investments for neighborhood parks through continued implementation of the 20 Year Neighborhood Park Plan (NPP20), continued sound fiscal management, providing responsive service delivery to meet the changing demographics and needs of the community, addressing the $15 minimum wage initiative and continues the use of racial equity tools throughout the budget process.

The Superintendent's Recommended 2018 Budget totals $80.7 million for the general operating fund, $3.1 million for the special revenue fund, $11.2 million for the enterprise operating fund and $2098 for capital project funding.

"The 2018 recommended budget continues much of the important work begun in 2017, including supporting the NPP20 and continuing to integrate criteria metrics and the use of the racial equity lens for budget allocations and decisions," explains Superintendent Jayne Miller. "It also allows continued focus on sustainable funding, supporting ongoing operations, addressing threats to the urban tree canopy, continued refinement and implementation of operating efficiencies and targeted service delivery improvements, and organizational initiative and asset investment alignments to meet changing demographic needs across the city."

For full details about Proposed 2018 Budget public comment opportunities and 2018 budget initiatives, read the full news release on our website.

Minneapolis Comprehensive Plan

Feedback Invited

We want to hear from YOU! Join your neighbors in shaping our city to become a healthy, sustainable, and thriving place for all. Minneapolis 2040 is an update to the City's Comprehensive Plan, a document that shapes how Minneapolis will grow and change. The plan will cover topics such as housing, job creation, the design of new buildings, and how we use our streets.

Over the past year, City planners have learned a lot from Minneapolis residents about the future of our city. We've heard that as the city grows, everyone must benefit from that growth.

You told us that it can be difficult to access jobs that are not located nearby. We've heard concerns about the rising cost of housing, and that not everyone has access to the type of housing that meets their needs. We've also heard that people value well-designed and environmentally sustainable buildings, and that there is a desire for the city to be more walkable, bikeable, and mass transit-friendly.

Beginning late in November and throughout the month of December, you will have the opportunity to provide feedback on some initial ideas for meeting these goals between now and 2040. Here is how you can participate:

Attend one of four upcoming family friendly, interactive open houses in early December. Enjoy complimentary refreshments from local vendors. Sign up for updates at minneapolis2040.com to learn when specific dates, times, and locations are available.

Participate online at minneapolis2040.com. New content for your feedback will be available November 20.

Have a conversation with your friends and neighbors, using the Meeting-in-a-Box available at minneapolis2040.com. A new Meeting-in-a-Box will be available on November 20.

For more information and to sign up for updates, go to minneapolis2040.com.

Don't just live retirement, ENJOY IT! Planning starts today.

Lyn 65 Kitchen and Bar
6439 Lyndale Ave S,

Our book club continues our quest to visit new (and sometimes favorite) restaurants every other month. This is not to avoid cooking, we all love that too, but to experience all that the metro area has to offer in tasty meals. We often check reviews to help decide what to order. The reviews for Lyn 65 Kitchen and Bar on Yelp were good (4 out of 5 stars) While the burgers and pizza are called out, also highly recommended was the fried chicken –gluten free!—and the cauliflower. We tried those and more. The food was good and the price was right. We always split the bill; we each owed $30 with tip and drinks included.

The owners, Benjamin Riets and Jason Sawicki, are long time chefs, both Alma veterans. Gluten free fried chicken? They brine the chicken, dip it in buttermilk, coat with gluten-free batter, and fry! And everyone gets a complimentary soft serve ice cream cone at the end of their meal.

So what's not to love? It was a hot September evening, but we still opted for the deck, given the crowds and noise inside. Sitting at a picnic table, with a floodlight glaring overhead, we realized that we had traded comfort for quiet. Our waiter, a most sincere young man, struggled all night to get our drink orders and food straight. We will go back for the chicken, and hope the ambiance and service improve.

Minneapolis Public Schools Superintendent Seeks Input on Budget

In my letter to the community this past February (http://www.mpls.k12.mn.us/budget_letter.html), I outlined the financial challenges faced by Minneapolis Public Schools. I pledged then and continue to be committed to a structurally balanced budget by the 2019-2020 school year. That means that over this school year and the next school year, we need to make some important decisions about our basic infrastructure so that the programs and services MPS offers don't continue to cost more than we can afford.

I'm looking for input from our entire community on how to best do that. Beginning today, the MPS website (http://www.mpls.k12.mn.us/mps_budget) will feature information on how MPS arrives at a budget each year, how we continue to operate at a deficit, and a link to a survey that we want you and every other family to complete. The survey will help us identify the values that are important to our school community so that we can incorporate those values into our decision-making. For additional information, we'll be conducting focus groups around the city to dig a little deeper into what's important to the people being served by our school district.

I hope that the information on the website and in the survey will answer questions for you. I also hope it will stimulate ideas about how we can move MPS forward. Everything is on the table. We can't keep doing the same thing and expect different results. I look forward to hearing from you – and to making MPS stronger than ever.

Thank you.

Anwatin has been an International Baccalaureate World School since 2010

The IB Middle Years Programme is a challenging framework that encourages students to make practical connections between their studies and the real world. The MYP is inclusive by design: students of all interests and academic abilities can benefit from their participation.

Students at Anwatin will:

- ◆ be encouraged to think independently and drive their own learning
- ◆ become more culturally aware, through the development of a second language
- ◆ be able to engage with people in an increasingly globalized, rapidly changing world

We teach in teams by grade level. Each grade level meets once a week to discuss team issues and individual student concerns. Our behavior support specialists are "one team" because we believe that positive relationships are critical to success at this age.

We have an exciting year ahead of us at the Minneapolis Nature Preschool, a new, Bryn Mawr based 501c3 nonprofit

A major highlight of summer 2017 was our Nature Play Adventure Camp, which included six children from Bryn Mawr, and was held in Anwatin Woods. We will be offering more opportunities to participate in the coming year, including a Winter Play Camp, 9:00 am-12:00, Jan 3-5, 2018. Children ages 4-6 are invited to join us for an outdoor winter adventure celebrating the beauty and joy of January in Minnesota. Email Alyson Quinn (minneapolisnaturepreschool@gmail.com) for more information.

Our goal is to open a pilot program for the 2018-19 school year. Your support keeps us going, whether as a board member, donor, parent, or volunteer. We welcome your participation in Give to the Max Day (<https://givemn.org>) on November 16, 2017. If your company is interested in matching donations, please let us know. To learn more about us or to contribute directly, please visit minneapolisnaturepreschool.org.

Our Mission: Cultivating the innate curiosity and wonder of young children through nature-based education in Minneapolis.

The Bryn Mawr Bugle is an open-forum newspaper published by the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association. Content is based entirely on volunteer submissions which may be emailed to bugle@bmna.org. Articles and letters to the editor will be printed at the discretion of the Editor. The Bryn Mawr Bugle is published every month except January. Distribution is free to Bryn Mawr residents; copies are also available at the Bryn Mawr Market, Bryn Mawr Mobil and Cuppa Java. Subscriptions are $21 per year. Opinion articles represent the opinion of the writer, not necessarily those of the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association or the Editor of the Bugle. The Bryn Mawr Bugle will print letters to the editor as space allows. Letters may be edited for length without altering the letter writer's message.
