With no changes, the Minutes for May Annual Meeting was approved.

Next Councilmember Lisa Goodman’s Reported. Policy aide Ruth Weakly is retiring. Cards are welcome. Lunch with Lisa is a field trip to different development projects. No Lunch With Lisa in July or August. Hennepin county is having a hazardous waste pickup. Reminder to continue to recycle. Hennepin County has local and regional distribution for recycling processing so is unaffected by international changes.

Steve Minn provided an update on 2800 Wayzata Blvd. Meeting with planning commission provided good feedback, characterized as “supportive and positive” by Steve. They made several suggestions. Steve presented an approximate schedule, which relayed building interior demolition through June, 2019, planning and leasing through April 2020, construction beginning May 2020 and completed January 2021, with full occupancy by December 2021.

There are issues with storm water run-off, and Aaron Diedrich presented several potential solutions, including underground storage, new holding ponds, or expanding the volume of existing holding ponds.

Kevin Thompson re-stated that a NCEC Elector and Alternate is needed. Dennis Fazio has volunteered to be an Elector. With no objections, the Board approved Dennis.

Communications and Fundraising Coordinator Report presented by Lynda Shaheen. Lynda and Jeremy are working towards live streaming the Board Meetings. Lynda is recommending a transition from Constant Contact to MailChimp for email communications. The Board made no objections. Lynda is also looking into creating an online “store” so neighborhood specific items can be purchased through the website. Lynda request transferring $300 in unused fundraising monies towards the purchase of Bryn Mawr T-Shirts which will be for sale. There will be a neighborhood social gathering and potluck at Chestnut park.

JoEllyn Jolstad provided a Bugle Report in absentia. Kevin Thompson summarized some of the issues with printing and delivery due to this change. There was a slight increase in cost as well. This is the Graduate issue, so salutations and congratulations should go in this month. Sue will write the next article. Jay Peterson reminded Board Members that part of their responsibilities include contributing articles.

Webmaster Jeremy Staffeld provided a Webmaster Report in absentia. Jay Peterson summarized. Significant web traffic in May, and there was positive feedback on the interactive map. There were a number of suspicious emails sent to BMNA email addresses.

Karen Frederickson provided an update on the Visioning workgroup. The results of a survey were provided with no editing. Results will be posted in the article.

Jessica Wiley presented an update on Community Projects. Bryn Mawr Monarch haven was successful. Attendees received a $40 voucher for pollinator friendly garden plants. The utility box wrap is in progress. Doggie waste station materials are in, and will be going up shortly.

Brian Treece presented on Events. With Patty’s resignation, several members are pulling together to tackle all of the tasks to make the Ice Cream Social a success.

Jessica Wiley gave an update on the Finance Committee. Several discussions have been had on potential modifications to the policies and procedures. A balance must be found between protecting the Board while making sure the procedures are not overly onerous for staff, contractors, and Board Members.

Jessica Wiley moved that the Finance Committee be charged with reviewing purchasing authorization and reimbursement procedures and recommend any procedural and/or policy changes needed to clarify and streamline those procedures. Seconded. After discussion. Motion carried.

Still no Garden Committee Chair, but Dennie got some volunteers together and tackled the downtown containers.

Karen Frederickson provided an update on the Gateway Art. Karen met David Bauer, Todd Carrol, Michelle Hewitt from MnDOT and Paul Miller with the City. There will be some expansion of sidewalk on the Mountview block. Their recommendation was to submit designs for next year’s funding. Karen and JD will be meeting with Michele next month.

Lynda Shaheen provided an update on Schools. There are pending proposals on major changes to programs and pathways. Limited changes to Bryn Mawr but there were proposed changes to Anwatin including moving the Spanish Immersion out and keeping Anwatin as a community middle school. The vote was pushed to December to allow more time to consider and gather feedback.

Vida Ditter provided an update on ROC/Basset Creek Valley. A vacant lot near the Wellington construction, former Leaf Building, will be made into townhouses.

Kevin Thompson spoke briefly on a proposed change Reserve Lot 40. There is a proposal to add a Bump Track in that park.

With nothing further, the meeting was adjourned.

From the Editor

Much like anticipation for the next episode of The Handmaid's Tale, Game of Thrones, or some other epic saga, I'm guessing some of you opened your Bugle to page four as soon as you got it, to read about the latest in my Soap Opera/Reality TV battle with replacing the roof on our 100-year old house. Each and every month (oh dear, how can it be months?) I hope to give that final update that says, all is well and done. But let's just say, the old gal (the house not me) has been putting on a brave face these last 20 years.

Progress is slow and each day reveals new surprises and so far, not many of them good or inexpensive to repair. The latest drama was the brick columns on the corners of our front porch which were no longer attached to the house. When a brick fell on the carpenter working inside the porch, it became clear that they needed to come down.

Luckily I have the guidance of my Area 4 neighbor Dave and his crew at Edgeworks Design to shepherd me through this process. Hopefully we will be able to restore this grand lady (again, the house) to it's stately century home stature that people will appreciate for years to come.

You would think that with all this happening in summer, I would have more time to attend to it and all the many phone calls and meetings it requires. But sadly, though I work in education, I am busier than ever in the summer. What is supposed to be later shifts (1-9pm) turns into 12-hour days of morning supply runs and emailing from home.

I am even going to miss the Ice Cream Scoop Off. I am always sorry to miss one of the fantastic BMNA events. For the past 11+ years the neighborhood events have been coordinated by the fantastic Patty Wycoff. She worked hard to make them fun, welcoming while still always coming in under budget. She created new events and reimagined long-standing traditions. Now it would seem that life is taking her in another direction. So the hunt is on to find the next visionary for the social life of the BMNA.

Is that person you? The great thing is, you don't have to be "the next Patty" you can bring your own spin and perspective on how to engage the neighbors with the Association and the Board.

Working for the BMNA is a balance of work and passion for Bryn Mawr. If you're looking for an opportunity to be involved in the neighborhood and are good at planning parties/events, reach out to vicepresident@bmna.org. I would love to work with you!

July 2, 1987

Big storm with 60 mph winds and damage in St. Paul. Thunderstorms are common on July afternoons, with a hot sun rapidly warming the humid air over the great plains. When to take cover indoors from lightning? Since sound travels much more slowly than light, thunder arrives about 5 seconds after the flash for a lightning strike one mile away. The less time between the lightning and thunder, the closer the strike. If you can't get indoors or into a car, don't be on the water, don't be the tallest object in an open field, don't stand under tall trees, and avoid metal (fences, land telephone lines, etc.)

A Blacksmith's Story

My neighbor, Carla Hall Willette, is a "Blacksmith." Yes, living right here in Bryn Mawr. This term is not used for only a horseshoe farrier but also includes these areas of metal work: art, sculpting, building and education.

She grew up in the Appalachian culture of North Carolina within a self-sufficient family. The women around her were all hand crafters, surely an influence on her early interest in the use of tools to create pieces of art.

Carla enrolled in Earlham College, a very small Indiana Quaker liberal arts college but studied blacksmithing at Penland Craft School focusing on metal studies and sculpture. Subsequently, she worked in the Bay Area of California for seventeen years at a non-profit organization teaching youth Industrial Arts classes which included glass blowing, woodworking, foundry and welding. She also ran a business while there custom designing and fabricating ornamental as well as functional metal pieces for clients.

These included metal interior and exterior railings, garden pieces, gates, lighting fixtures and furniture.

Because Minnesota has a strong metal arts community, Carla moved here two years ago with her spouse Rene Willette to re-establish her custom metal business and teach. As an educator she offers a weekend basic blacksmithing class for adults through the Grand Marais North House Folk School. In Minneapolis she is involved at the Chicago Avenue Fire Arts Center which offers basic blacksmithing for youth and adults as one of many types of class offerings.

When Carla is not doing metal work she can be found doing gardening, tending to her hens in their deluxe coop, building patio furniture, entertaining friends or cuddling their five month old daughter Franny. She never sits still!

Lion King is Anwatin Musical
