Festival of Garage Sales

September 11, 2021

It's a go! The Bryn Mawr Festival of Garage Sales will be Saturday, September 11th. It's been over two years since the BMNA has been able to host this iconic event. This festival draws people from all over the city and beyond to Bryn Mawr for over 100 garage sales, along with eating and shopping at our local stores. Some sales start Friday night and many continue into Sunday. Clean out the garage, organize your goods and get ready for shopping!

Please register your sale at bmna.org or complete the registration form. The deadline for registrations is Thursday, September 2nd. The registration fees collected are used to pay for things like: promotion of the event, portable bathrooms and street permits. Not only does your money help with these expenses, it is also used to advertise your garage sale and the items you are selling. BMNA compiles a list of registered sales for the public. We post this list on our website and have copies at local businesses and at each registered garage sale. Each garage sale registered with BMNA will receive a Bryn Mawr sticker. Keep your fingers crossed for good weather!

POLICE-COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIPS

August 3, 2021

National Night Out is August 3! Gather your neighbors for a potluck or just to get together. Minneapolis leads the nation in National Night Out (NNO) gatherings. NNO is a chance to gather socially with neighbors, a time to build important relationships that keep your neighborhood safe, and a chance to get to know your local police officers who visit the registered events (the registration deadline has passed). More ideas can be found on the city website, <https://www.minneapolismn.gov/government/programs-initiatives/nno/>. Don't forget to tag us in your photos!

The City Recommends:

- Serving single-serve food and beverage items
- No bouncy houses
- Providing sanitizing stations
- Featuring activities that accommodate social distancing

Help for Renters

The eviction moratorium is ending. Your lease could be terminated if you have not paid your rent and are not eligible for COVID-19 assistance. Between now and October 12, property owners must give tenants a 15 day notice before they file for eviction. Apply for help at RentHelpMN.org or call 211.

Apply now for Energy Assistance Program to get up to $1600 to cover your energy bills

The past year was tough for a lot of Minnesotans. That's why there are options for you to get your energy bills paid, whether you rent or own your home, whether you have past-due utility bills, or if you are getting big bills for electric or heat power.

Apply for Minnesota's Energy Assistance Program. More Minnesotans than ever before are eligible for the program. The Minnesota Department of Commerce has received an additional $167 million in federal funding through the American Rescue Plan Act to fund Minnesota's Energy Assistance Program.

Request an application or find your local service provider:

Call 800-657-3710 and press 1
OR search online for "Minnesota energy assistance" OR go online: mn.gov/commerce/eap.jsp

Homeowners and renters can qualify for energy assistance.

Commerce has raised the income level for households to qualify, so more Minnesota households than ever before qualify for energy assistance. For example, a household with four people can have annual income of up to $65,228 to qualify.

You could receive up to $1,600 for energy bills and may qualify for an additional $1,200 to cover past-due bills.

By applying for energy assistance, Minnesota households can qualify for Minnesota's Weatherization Assistance Program to pay for free home improvements to conserve energy and permanently reduce that home's energy costs.

Consumers with past-due utility bills: Contact your utility company to request to set up a plan for repayment. Regulated utility companies will not charge late fees or penalties for consumers who have entered into and are complying with a plan for repayment. For additional help, the PUC Consumer Affairs Office is available to answer questions and to provide consumer mediation services: Call 651-296- 0406 or 1-800-657-3782, or email customer.puc@state.mn.us.

City implements even-odd water sprinkling restrictions in response to drought

The City of Minneapolis is implementing even-odd water sprinkling restrictions until further notice. The city is now included in a drought warning as defined by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Drought Action Plan.

The Mississippi River has reliably provided the City of Minneapolis with drinking water for over 150 years. The City assures the public of its continued ability to produce sufficient quantities of high quality water for its residents and wholesale customers. The City's sprinkling restrictions are in place to help reduce demand on the Mississippi River during the ongoing drought. Other metro cities have similar measures in place.

Sprinkling restrictions

- Sprinkling lawns is NOT allowed from noon to 6 p.m. on any day.
- On calendar days that are even numbers (examples: July 26 or Aug. 18), the even side of the street CAN sprinkle lawns outside of the noon to 6 p.m. time window. Examples: 1238 Oak St. or 2574 Cedar Ave.
- On calendar days that are odd numbers (examples July 27 or Aug. 19), the odd side of the street CAN sprinkle lawns. Examples: 1247 Maple St. or 2561 18th Ave.

Exceptions

- Bushes and flowers may be watered with a hand-held hose as needed.
- Vegetable gardens and new sod (first two weeks from placement) may be watered on any day but not during the prohibited afternoon hours of noon to 6 p.m. Trees may be watered with a dripping hose, bucket or tree watering bag as needed.

Ranked Choice Voting.....
Easy as one, two, three!

The fourth in a series of articles about the 2021 Municipal Elections brought to you by the League of Women Voters Minneapolis.

Minneapolis residents can say goodbye to voting for the lesser of two evils thanks to Ranked Choice Voting (RCV), a unique method for electing local officials that was first implemented in our city in 2013. On November 2, you can vote for your first, second, third choice candidates for the offices of Mayor, City Council, Parks & Recreation Board and Board of Estimate and Taxation. That's right, just like the lottery, you can pick three.

Here's how RCV works:

Choose the candidate who best represents your views, and fill in the circle beside their name under the 1st Choice column. You can then proceed to indicate your second and third choice candidates by marking the circles next to their names in the 2nd and 3rd choice columns. There is no primary election runoff, so no candidates are excluded before Election Day. You can choose any candidate among every candidate who files to run for office.

You don't have to choose three candidates, but here's why you might want to: After the polls close, all first Choice votes will be counted (including absentee and vote-by-mail ballots). If there is a clear winner - that is, if one candidate receives the highest vote count ABOVE the 50 percent threshold - the race is called, and that candidate is declared the winner. If no candidate reaches 50 percent, then the counting moves to round two.

In round two, the candidates with the lowest vote count and no mathematical chance of winning are eliminated, and their voters' votes are shifted to their second choice candidate. If, after round two, no candidate reaches the threshold, the counting moves to round three, four, and five etc. until the candidate with the most votes above 50 percent is declared the winner.

With Ranked Choice Voting, every candidate is on equal footing, and no candidate is a "spoiler."

The City of Minneapolis website has extensive educational materials explaining RCV, including videos in Spanish, Somali and Hmong. (<https://vote.minneapolismn.gov/ranked-choice-voting/details/>) If you or someone you know has a question or needs assistance, call the City of Minneapolis Help Line: 311.

From the Editor

Normally, I would be planning my days around the Summer Olympic Games. I grew up in a sporting family and love watching the best of the best. But I honestly all I have been able to watch is the early morning live coverage. I have my head-down trying to get to the end of next week.

This week's wild ride started with a trip with the hubby to see our daughter compete in the Voices of Summer. She has been in Fairhope, Alabama singing with the International Performing Arts Institute. They are usually in the German Alps but relocated to the founders' hometown when travel restrictions made that too difficult.

While it was amazing to see our daughter perform and be named one of only 8 finalists in the Opera category, I felt further away from home than if we had been in Bavaria. The temperature was pretty much the same there as it is here. But the sun and the humidity were unbelievably intense. The people were super friendly and welcoming but sadly the vaccination rate is not much above 30%.

Luckily almost everywhere in town closes at 10 so there was no post-performance late night partying for us. Still, we were relieved to get our negative Covid test results upon our return.

At work my middle school production of Into the Woods, Jr. is taking the stage Thursday and Friday. In addition to all the regular show craziness of last minute props, programs and tickets, we have a million other tasks designed to somehow keep everyone safe. It feels great to be giving these kids and families the opportunity to experience theatre again. I only wish I could say that it will be a smooth glide to the end of summer after it closes.

But after taking Saturday off, I will launch straight into tech and six performances of Matilda the Musical. Like the middle school show, this 16+ production is not your typical pre-pandemic effort. This summer, Minneapolis Public School has not allowed adult programs inside buildings so this show has been rehearsing and will be performed outside. That means, no stage, moveable set pieces (that fit in actor's cars), no stage lights and last minute costume and sound load-ins.

The great news is that performances will be only a few blocks away at Bryn Mawr Elementary School. Beyond all the challenges, this is going to be an amazing show - and how fun to experience this on the lawn at our own community school. Performance and ticket information can be found on pages 5 and 10 if you want to check it out!

Bugle Notes

Area 6 - Matilda the Musical at Bryn Mawr School

Musical theatre returns in-person with the highly anticipated summer production of Matilda the Musical. Originally planned for last summer, and shelved due to COVID, the show will now play August 3-8.

Packed with high-energy dance numbers, catchy songs and an unforgettable star turn for a young actress, Matilda is a joyous girl power romp. Children and adults alike will be thrilled and delighted by the story of the special girl with an extraordinary imagination.

Performers spanning nearly 50 years in age auditioned in early June and it became clear right away of their talent level. Two who were cast in principal roles just graduated high school and will be attending the coveted UofM Duluth BFA training program in the fall. Other performers have many years of experience, including Twin Cities Theatre veteran Julie Madden, who plays the antagonist evil headmistress, Ms. Trunchbull. Asked about preparing for the role Madden says, "I am having so much fun, I can't stand it, because it is like the first time back in a group of people, singing and laughing together." Ensemble member Laurence Richardson echoes those sentiments sharing, "It is really great to do choral music again as I've been missing it these past few years."

Asked about performing, Co-Producer Dave Premack says, "As things begin to reopen, we are thrilled to be able to offer live performance opportunities, as unlike their athletic counterparts, school and local theatre artists have been unable to practice their craft for far too long." "We are so excited to showcase performers from schools all across our city and beyond," added Co-Producer JoEllyn Jolstad.

Performances will be on the lawn at the Bryn Mawr Schools Campus at 226 Upton Ave S at 6:00pm nightly Aug. 3-7 with a 1:00 matinee on Sun., Aug. 8. Audience members should dress for the weather and bring a lawn chair or blanket to sit on. Tickets available at many different price points by calling 612-668-3100 and at Ticketleap.com (minneapolis-community-education.ticketleap.com/matilda-the-musical).

Olivia Nielsen – Area 1 Co-Rep
Liv grew up in Ward 7. She moved back in 2018, choosing to live in Bryn Mawr on Drew Avenue because of the proximity to Cedar Lake and Theo Wirth Park. Liv has a background in visual art, advocacy, and peacebuilding.

Scott Graham – Area 1 Co Rep

graduated with a degree in Economics and currently works as a commercial real estate analyst.
Bridget and her fiancé, Trevor, rented in Bryn Mawr for a few years and recently purchased a home on Penn Avenue in Area 5. They love Bryn Mawr for the neighborhood feel and proximity to running trails, runs often fueled by candy bars purchased at the Bryn Mawr Market.
Bridget joined the board to get to know neighbors and become more involved in the community. She is excited to represent her neighbors and be a new member of the board!

Anthony Ramirez – Area 7 Co-Rep

Anthony Ramírez is originally from the Dominican Republic, where he has lived for most of his life. He moved to Bryn Mawr to Vincent Avenue North in July 2020 with his wife, Molly Dengler, and their 5 year old son, Andrés. Molly grew up in Minneapolis. Anthony has served as a community leader and volunteer with different national and international non-profit organizations including Plan International and World Vision. He holds a B.A in Clinical Psychology and is excited to apply his experience and perspective as a member of the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association.

Massive derecho storm flattened millions of acres of crops along a 770 mile path from Nebraska to Indiana with winds clocked at 112 MPH near Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Grain bins toppled. These rare storms are sometimes called land hurricanes. “Derecho” means “straight” in Spanish.

Partial solar eclipse, almost total here (80% coverage) over the noon hour. Somewhat cloudy but we drove to Hastings and were rewarded with a clear view and used a pinhole camera made from a shoebox to follow the moon’s shadow’s nearly 3 hour journey across the sun. There will be a similar partial eclipse in April 2024. The last total solar eclipse in the Twin Cities was in June, 1954

Yoga in the Meadows

Sunday, Aug 20, 10-11am
Summer has arrived! Because yoga in the park was such a success last year, we're bringing it back! Let's gather at Bryn Mawr Meadows Park for three Sunday morning yoga classes led by local instructor Daheia Barr-Anderson. All ages and abilities are encouraged to attend. A $5 donation to the instructor is suggested. We'll meet at the Southwest corner of the park, near the intersection of Oliver and Morgan Ave S.
Outdoor Yoga Tips: Please come 5-10 minutes early to find a spot for your mat. Remember to bring sunscreen, plenty of water and maybe a towel. If you'd like a little extra non-grassy coverage around your mat, consider bringing a light blanket to place under it. In the event of rain, the class will be cancelled.

Goats In The Park

Did you see them? Yes, those were goats in Wirth Park the last couple of weeks in June. About 60 goats were munching Buckthorn in an area of the park near the intersection of Wirth Parkway and 394.

The goats were contained in a large paddock surrounded by a double, white mesh fence which can be powered by solar. In this instance, the power was off, the goats having learned to avoid the electrified fence.

Half a dozen years ago, the Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board considered using goats instead of pesticides to control invasive plants like Buckthorn. Goats have now been in MPRB parks for about four years, chewing up Buckthorn.

The goats in Wirth Park earlier this summer were brought here from Southeast Minnesota by goat-herder Jesse who is part of Diversity Land Works. Jesse says that Buckthorn removal by goats works best if done in early summer and again in the fall. It takes about three years to have a lasting effect on the Buckthorn. This is similar to the effort needed when we humans pull the Buckthorn.

The goats you may have been lucky to see were predominantly female, with a few neutered males. Breeds of goats like the white Kiko goats are especially good at Buckthorn removal. Kiko goats were developed in New Zealand for meat production under harsh conditions.

Goats in general have a natural preference for spiny woody plants like Buckthorn, and are being used elsewhere around the State. The rough texture of Buckthorn stimulates the release of an enzyme in the gut of goats, making it a food easy for them to digest.

The goats were fun for some of us to see in our urban neighborhood. They also turn out to be a helpful ally in the work some of you have been doing to remove Buckthorn from the park areas.

Partnering with Young Readers

Bryn Mawr Community School will launch the Reading Partners program this Fall, which pairs K-5 students with a community volunteer to help students develop strong reading skills. Reading Partners adds to a variety of exciting new offerings at the elementary school this Fall.

First piloted in Colorado in 2015, Reading Partners has been shown to significantly raise reading levels for participating students with especially dramatic increases shown for English language learners. Reading Partners hires college graduates from AmeriCorps to organize and administer the program in each building. The program administrators support community volunteer tutors who read books with students once or twice a week depending upon the time commitment of the volunteer. Students select the books they read with their partner. Some Minneapolis schools have had the Reading Partners program for a few years, and the volunteer tutor with whom I spoke loves the program and can't wait to get back to reading with kids in school. The program tries to maintain the same partner with each young reader throughout a ten week session.

Tutors are trained to help students with their reading skills, and there are already two training sessions scheduled for people in the community who may be interested in learning about the program and becoming a volunteer tutor at Bryn Mawr Elementary: August 26th from 4:00-5:30 p.m. and September 1 from 3:30-5:00 p.m. If reading with kids appeals to you as a way to invest in our community, you can learn more or sign up at Tommy.Lindquist@ReadingPartners.org The BMNA website will also post details about the format and location of the training sessions as they are finalized.

Apeirogon: A Novel
Colum McCann

Colum McCann is a storyteller, and this story begs to be told. It is the true tale of two fathers who lost very young daughters in 1997 and 2007 to political violence in the Mideast. McCann weaves their real-life experiences with history, fiction, and ecology to create an understanding of loss that is timeless, placeless.

Bassam Aramin, a Palestinian, and Rami Elhanan, an Israeli, come to know each other through a parent grief group for those whose children have been killed in the conflict in Jerusalem. They are fathers on disputed land, living along walls and check points, forbidden streets and neighborhoods. They feel compelled to tell their shared experience of anguish and loss, despite the dangers of aligning together, because the Israeli/Palestinian conflict has become so personal to them.

The book is a collage of personal and historical vignettes. Some chapters are one sentence long. There are chapters on the migration of birds through Israel, the wars and Intifadas, letters between Einstein and Freud about the “mythology of instincts,” the music of John Cage, the history of the Molotov Cocktail and Shrapnel, a daring tightrope walk across Jerusalem meant to bring peace to the area. The structure mirrors the tales of A Thousand and One Nights. As Scheherazade’s stories kept her alive, each time the fathers tell their story, their daughters live on. And McCann’s vignettes bring the circle of history to light.

Though Bassam and Rami’s loss is timeless and placeless, it also is specifically about the Palestinian/Israeli conflict. The Occupation, the oppression the Palestinians live with, the fear and history of oppression the Israeli’s are bound to, is clear in the stories told here. It is an indictment of the tragedy, horror, and terror of the conflict between Israel and Palestine.

This is not an easy read. It is based on a complicated political and historical scene, and while McCann’s writing is poetic, the structure of the text was difficult for some. But it’s a book worth the trouble.
