In addition to your meeting your neighbors face to face, the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association would like you to receive a welcome packet. The welcome packet explains the history, aspirations and opportunities that come with living in the neighborhood. Also, there are coupons in the welcome packet that can introduce you to the businesses located in your new neighborhood.

Bryn Mawr Festival of
GARAGE SALES
May 4, 2024

One of the most anticipated days of the year is Saturday, May 4th. Shoppers in search of treasures will fill the neighborhood and some neighbors will say goodbye to their treasures they no longer treasure.

It is important to keep your strength up while shopping or selling. There will be several options for food throughout the neighborhood. Local businesses Cuppa Java, La Mesa and Bryn Mawr Pizza and Deli will be serving the crowd all day. Area 3 resident, Tommie Beevas (owner of Pimento Jamaican Kitchen and Rum Bar and Lola on the Lake) will have his food truck in the Mill City Dental parking lot. Sweet Frucci's ice cream truck will be in the driveway of Big Hill Books. Tasty Treats food truck will be serving corn dogs hot dogs and cheese curds on Cedar Lake Road near the church. You can find all of these on the garage sale map. Portable restrooms will be set up in the parking lot of La Mesa (thank you La Mesa!) facing Cedar Lake Road.

Scan the QR code for an interactive list of registered garage sales or visit bmna.org.

Email questions to events@bmna.org or call 612-239-1710.

2024 Community Projects Funded

For over 15 years the BMNA has reviewed ideas suggested to improve the neighborhood. The ideas range from the serious to the whimsical; this year was no different. We discussed painting crosswalks to slow down traffic, stocking Little Free Libraries, wrapping utility boxes, providing more bike racks, putting creative signage in the community gardens, picnic tables, bird feeders, and decorating bridges.

The Community Projects Committee met in early April to evaluate the eight proposals submitted by neighbors. The committee identified the following three projects for funding. Each of the approved projects has a leader willing to follow through and fit the other criteria.

- Picnic Tables at Big Hill Books
- Nature Pre-School Forest Bird Feeders
- Thomas Avenue Pedestrian Bridge Beautification

Picnic Tables at Big Hill Books- Dollars for this project will be used to purchase four picnic table kits; an identified volunteer will assemble the tables. The Bryn Mawr community will have access to an extended outdoor space behind Big Hill Books that will include picnic tables, a pergola, landscaping, and lighting.

Nature Pre-School Forest Bird Feeders- This project will improve the chickadee landing and bird feeders located in the school forest behind Bryn Mawr Elementary, which is maintained by Nature Pre-School staff and volunteers.

Thomas Avenue Pedestrian Bridge Beautification- This is a pilot project to add fence art in between the links in the fence on the bridge over the freeway. Dollars will be used to purchase cups to create the design.

Watch the Bugle for further information as these projects develop.

Projects that will improve our community were solicited from neighbors from December through February. As in the past, there were many intriguing ideas submitted. We will continue to pursue ways to address them.

Criteria for community projects include:

- Is it possible (politically, physically)?
- Does it meet the budget ($0 - $1500)?
- Is it sustainable long term?
- Does it have neighborhood wide impact?
- Who does it benefit?
- Is there leadership (an identified neighbor) to get the project done?

We appreciate the creative ideas we received and hope you will continue to submit ideas for future projects to jessica.wiley@bmna.org

The BMNA Community Project has been in place since 2008. Committee members include Steve Harvey, Area 7; Jay Peterson, Area 6; Joanne Michalec, Area 4; Jessica Wiley, Area 3; Susan Verrett, Area 2; Addie Arnold, Area 2; and Lynda Shabeen, Neighborhood Coordinator.

From the Editor

It is possible that the best “plan” actually evolves from a pivot. Last month, after finishing the Bugle, I took the week of Minneapolis Public Schools’ spring break off. I had a long to-do list including cleaning the house in preparation for hosting the April meeting of my book club. The intention was to spend the first weekend including Easter at the cabin.

My brother went ahead of us on Friday morning to get things warmed up but quickly learned that the furnace was not responding to the thermostat. Undeterred, he started a fire and kept the main floor in the 50s and the loft (where he slept with his 6-month old puppy) quite toasty.

Saturday morning, we packed up the car with all the Easter dinner fixings and every space heater we could get our hands on. On our way to pick up our daughter, we got a call from the cabin. Apparently, getting up every four hours to haul wood from the basement was not sustainable.

Suddenly, it seemed that we would be hosting my brother, his family and our mom for Easter dinner at our house and we had less than 24-hours to clean and pack up two shows’ worth of costume fallout.

Not being able to face this daunting reality, I decided to go check out Bleu, the newest edition to our “downtown” Bryn Mawr business district. I bought a beautiful vase and some charming appetizer plates and headed home to clean.

After a frenzied afternoon and evening of sheer madness, we enjoyed a lovely, relaxed family dinner. And on Monday morning I found myself on vacation, at home with cleaning checked off the list.

Hosting had shed new light on just how long it had been since we had made any changes to the furnishings and decor in our house, so, I wandered back down the block to Bleu for inspiration. I also wanted a card. When I didn’t find what I was looking for, I was delighted when I got referrals to other Bryn Mawr businesses (Bryn Mawr Market, Cuppa Java, Greenhouse and Big Hill Books). This turned into a leisurely day of walking from shop to shop.

I have always appreciated and supported our business district. But it was so heartwarming to have the businesses support one another. They also came out big time to support the BMNA Member Night. Check out all the sponsors on page 8.

As the weather warms and you find yourself walking around, make your way down to one of our new businesses, an old favorite or maybe one that just has a new owner!

Bugle Notes

Area 2

Longtime Area 2 resident and former Minneapolis City Council president Dan Cohen passed away on April 4. Dan was a major influence on city politics for nearly sixty years. He helped establish the Human Rights Commission and served several terms as a member of the City Planning Commission. In his 2013 campaign for mayor, Dan lost to Betsy Hodges.

In addition to writing some twenty books, Dan's dispute with StarTribune owner Cowles Media over a breach of confidentiality eventually landed in both the Minnesota and the U.S. Supreme Court. In the landmark 1991 case, Dan was awarded compensatory damages.

A man with a wide range of interests, Dan was also a racehorse owner at Canterbury Park. He is survived by his wife Gail, three daughters, and three grandchildren. A private ceremony has been held.

Areas 2 and 3

At the end of February, the Bugle lost one of our own. Kevina Munnich spent many years writing "Bugle Notes", managing our subscription and distributing the Bugle to her neighbors. She was involved with NRP, served on the Anwatin Community Education Advisory Council and was a founding member of the BMNA Schools Committee.

Kevina worked at Bryn Mawr Elementary as a reading specialist and was a Sunday School teacher at the Basilica of St. Mary.

Kevina and her husband Lee live first in Area 3 and then Area 2 before moving to La Rive Condominiums on the Mississippi.

We combed through the BMNA photo archives to find a picture of Kevina in action but apparently she was either moving too fast or actively avoiding the cameras.

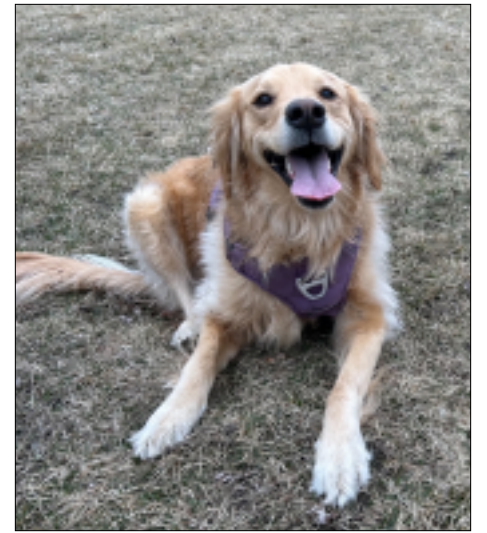

You can read a complete obituary on the Washburn-McReavy website which is also the source of this photo.

Pup of the Month

By Carter Casmaer

Welcome to 'Pup of the Month' where we profile Bryn Mawr's goodest four legged friends. May's pup is a future Dog Hall of Fame member, golden retriever and force of nature named Lulu. She is a 3 year old rescue and every day is the best day of her life. Her level of stoke for simply being alive is unparalleled and an inspiration to dogs and humans alike. Lulu enjoys eating sticks, staring at bunnies, mentoring her 2 year old human sister and wrestling with her dog friends. Her favorite color is purple and, when she wants to, she might come when called. She is perpetually down to clown and is, without a doubt, a very good girl! brynmawrpupofthemoth@gmail.com.

Barb and Doug Anderson's Bryn Mawr Market Story

Mark Henry, Area 3

The following is from an interview with Barb and Doug Anderson, who recently sold the Bryn Mawr Market after owning and operating it for close to four decades.

According to Barb and Doug, there has been a market at 412 Cedar Lake Road since 1928 with a few name changes over the years (Segals, Floyds). Floyds was a meat market / butcher shop on one side and a grocery store on the other. Ed and Ruth White owned and operated the store when Paul and Doug were growing up. Fred Lumbar, who took over from the Whites, was the owner when Paul started working at the market at the age of 13.

Though Paul and Doug had long been interested in buying the grocery store, Paul worked for Fred for years which allowed him the flexibility to travel around the world as a photographer. In 1987 Paul and Doug bought the store and began operating it on their own, though they "didn't know anything": Doug had a little bit of retail experience as a Walgreens store manager but Fred didn't bother to teach the brothers much of anything about the grocery business.

When Doug said to Fred, "This is going to be a lot of work isn't it?" he responded "No, you won't have to be here too much" but the brothers soon learned that 15 hours was often the minimum commitment for the day. They soon hired employees for $4.00 an hour.

"That was our first payment on February 1, 1988 for $1200. It took us forever to save the money for the down payment because inventory dominated the cash flow.

Barb came into the picture in the early 2000s. She would bring her daughter in to work with her and put her in a grocery cart during her shift. Over time as the kids grew they started to help out, for instance by stocking the shelves.

According to Doug, "The first rough time for us was when the economy took a dive in the early 1990s and we couldn't afford to buy groceries to stock the shelves. We don't remember applying for a credit card but we just got all these cards in the mail so we survived on credit and as time went on and things got better we became even with our debt."

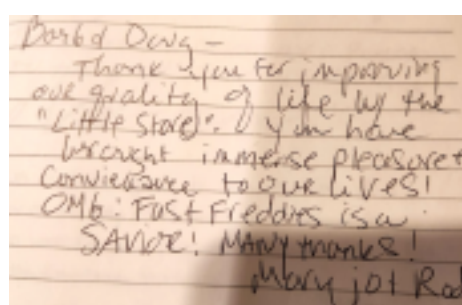

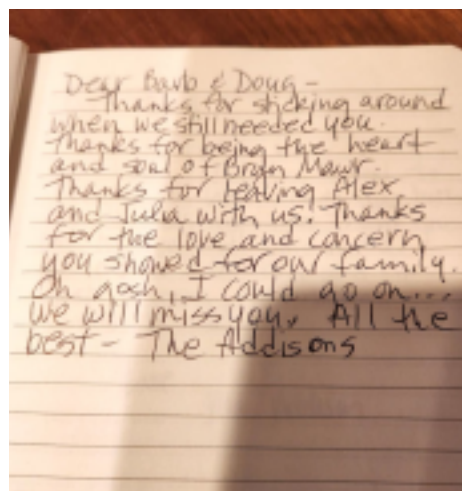

The market is not a very profitable business—almost everything that comes in goes back out again to fill the shelves. Paul and Doug didn't buy it to get rich, they bought it for the lifestyle.

Employee Dave Lockson and Barb were the two change agents for the store. Dave would persuade customers to purchase more items in the spirit of supporting the store. Dave and Barb also asked customers what new items they wanted to see on the store shelves. Customers asked for more organic items, which was a challenge for an operation as small and independent as theirs; they struggled to make the $500 minimum order from UNF, the only organic wholesaler.

The very worst thing that has happened was trying to survive COVID as a small business and the robbery they experienced the day after Christmas in 2021 compounded everything. Families with kids stopped coming in out of fear for their safety and the business suffered a dramatic decline. Then we found out that the neighborhood had started a GoFundMe page shortly after the shooting. We offered to give a portion of the money to the girl that was shot and she really didn't want the money, so we decided to donate to Young Victims of Violence. The rest of the funds went back into the store and gave us a new life. Doug says he felt he never did a good enough job expressing her gratitude to the neighborhood for their support.

Paul, the soul and spirit of the shop, passed in 2023 after suffering a number of debilitating injuries.

Friends and family held a celebration of the Anderson's legacy at Utepils Brewery around a crowd of 100+ appreciative customers of the shop. Doug says, "I spent 35 years saying thank you to customers, and they finally had a chance to stay thank you to me for serving the neighborhood." People shared their stories about memorable moments as shoppers. (see three photos of favorite notes written from their celebration book pictured below.)

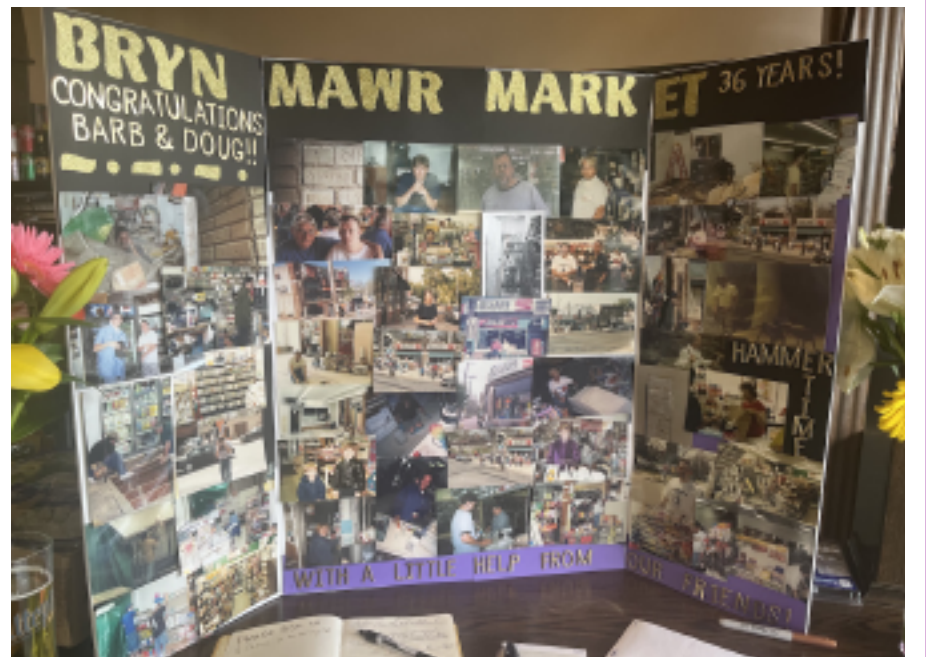

Happy Retirement to Doug and Barb!

Neighbors, friends and family gathered at Utepils to celebrate the retirement of Doug and Barb Anderson. They have been the owners of the Bryn Mawr Market for 36 years. The market has been an invaluable business in Bryn Mawr. We thank you for your strong, consistent support of the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association. We wish you health, happiness and relaxation during your next chapter of life.

Gratefully,
Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association

According to Barb, "Working at the store has made me a better person because it exposed me to all kinds of people and made me learn how to deal with everybody."

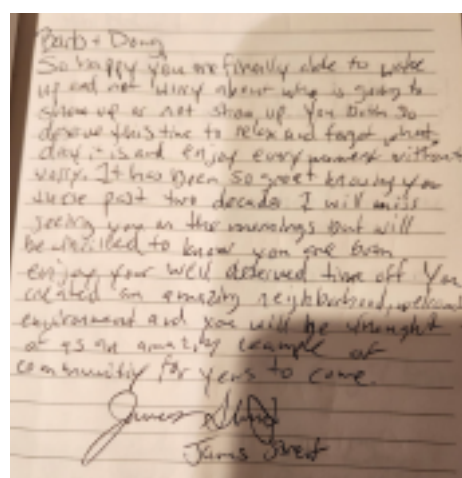

When asked what are some of the memories they'll cherish and what they'll miss the most about running the Bryn Mawr Market, Barb and Doug respond, "The people—and there are hundreds. There are people who did things for us, they were customers for a while and became friends." A couple of weeks before they sold the store, one of the pipes burst in the basement and Barb and one of their employees Samara just before closing time walked downstairs to see a flood of water coming out of the office, "water just pouring down from the ceiling." As Barb ran upstairs to ask for help she noticed that water was also leaking from the ceiling. Needing help fast, Barb remembered one of her customers was a handyman, and upon one quick call he dropped everything he was doing and ran to the store to shut the water off without hesitation.

Barb and Doug handed the keys and store ownership over to Steve Young in March, a former marine who occasionally dabbled in stand-up comedy for fun, is now an attorney and owner of the market.

In retirement, the Andersons look forward to catching up on the things they haven't been able to do for the past 35 years. Like collecting. Paul and Doug came from a family of collectors and Doug boasts a coin collection, Reader's Digests dating back to 1939 and the tens of thousands of slides Paul accumulated over his years of photographing his travels around the world.

Though Barb and Doug live in Robbinsdale, you'll still see them around the neighborhood because their son Alex owns the pizza shop, and his sister, Julia helps him manage it. "What a privilege it has been being a member of the Bryn Mawr community. It has been a joy to watch the families grow from toddlers, to teenagers to college graduates. Hopefully we have left a positive impact for the neighborhood."

What a fantastic night! This event gets bigger and better every year. This event truly takes a village and the village showed their love and support for our neighborhood. We had over 200 neighbors attend this event.

We have dedicated a page in this month's Bugle to thank our generous sponsors. Please take a look at this impressive list and the next time you are in any of these businesses, thank them for supporting Bryn Mawr.

The Silent Auction earned nearly $5000 with some hot items like a snowblower from North End Hardware, a Bde Maka Ska print from Legendary Landmark Art, three custom made baskets from board members and Bleu, a tour of the U of MN Bee Lab, and Eyebobs gift cards.

Thank you neighbors, sponsors and silent auction donors for making this a record breaking BMNA event.

Section of Cedar Lake Parkway Closes for the Summer Beginning May 7

A short section of Cedar Lake Parkway straddling its intersection with Kenilworth Trail is scheduled to close beginning May 7, 2024. This closure applies to thru traffic on Cedar Lake Parkway between Sunset Boulevard and Xerxes Avenue S. Access to homes north of Cedar Lake Parkway in this area will be maintained.

The closure is expected to last until August 15, 2024. The trail next to the parkway will remain open through this area on a temporary path. Please slow down and yield to pedestrians.

The closure is necessary for the Metropolitan Council's Green Line Extension project. The Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board appreciates everyone's patience while this project is built.

Call the Green Line Extension 24-hour hotline for problems such as blocked access to business or residential areas, improper traffic sign placement or parking issues: 612-373-3933.

Little Free Libraries

Did you know Bryn Mawr is home to over 15 Little Free Libraries? Little Free Libraries are designed to build community, inspire readers and expand book access. They got their start as a non-profit organization in St. Paul. The libraries are really book sharing boxes that come in many designs where anyone may take a book or leave a book to share. You do not need to share a book in order to take one. Try to share a book in the future when you can. You can use the Little Free Library website, www.littlefreelibrary.org, to find a library. You can also register your library on the website. Caretakers of the libraries keep it clean but it is up to everyone to help keep it stocked. In 2021 Bryn Mawr's Racial Justice Community received 30 books from a special program called Read in Color which is designed to bring more diverse books to these libraries. The committee placed these books plus additional ones that were purchased throughout the neighborhood. We also mapped the libraries that were found on our streets at that time. If you know a library that is missing from our map, let us know so we can update it. The map is also on our website bmna.org/association/racialjustice

Gardens

Ah, spring... AH! THE GARDEN!! May has that lovely effect on the northern gardener, as we both relish in the warmth, beauty, and possibility of Spring, while simultaneously scribble out checklists and make urgent return trips to the local hardware store or garden center to pack all of our must-do preparations into the short weeks leading up to Memorial Day, our unofficial start of Summer. Whether you're embarking on a large project in your yard, or planting a few pots, we wish you luck with your preparations, and can't wait to see and hear about your progress in the months ahead.

Help at the Hedge

Bryn Mawr's gateway hedge has already had its first trim and cleanup of the season. Big thanks to Steve Pundt, Beth Franzen, Jessica Haverstock, Greg Marita, Allison Reese, Jessica Wiley, Steve Jensen, and Kevin Thompson for keeping the hedge in masterful condition and a one-of-a-kind Minneapolis neighborhood treasure!

Consider native plants this year

Did you know that ninety percent of plant-eating insects can eat only the native plants they co-evolved with? The monarch butterfly caterpillar, for example, can feed only on milkweeds. Also, many of Minnesota's nearly 500 species of native bees are specialists that depend on certain species of native plants. While exotic plants and flowers may be beautiful, they are not food sources to most of our pollinators.

In addition to beautifying the community, native plants provide essential habitat, food, and shelter for insects and wildlife. They have deep roots that can improve the soil's capacity to store and infiltrate water. They are more resilient to drought while helping to improve water quality and require less care than traditional garden plants. You can help preserve and restore biodiversity of our native plant communities beginning in your own yard. Each new species you include in your garden provides added value for wildlife—even starting with a few plants of a single species.

Meadow Blazing Star is often referred to as the "Monarch Magnet". In late summer, a single plant can host several at a time as they draw nectar from the purple button-like blooms. This Liatris variety attracts other butterflies and pollinators along with hummingbirds. And the late season seeds are popular with goldfinches.

Upcoming events where you can learn about and purchase native plants:

MAY 18: City of Burnsville Native Plant Market
9am - noon; City Hall, 100 Civic Center Parkway
burnsvillemn.gov

Some vendors may offer the option to pre-order plants in addition to shopping the day of the event. Dakota Valley Recycling is also hosting a garden tool swap alongside the plant market so bring your unneeded tools or garden supplies. Non-Burnsville residents are welcome to attend!

MAY 31: Wild Ones Prairie Edge Plant Sale & Fundraiser
3pm - 7pm; Meetinghouse Church parking lot, 6200 Colonial Way, Edina wildonesprairieedge.org

Wild Ones organization has several chapters throughout Minnesota promoting native landscapes through education, advocacy, and collaborative action. Experts will be available to advise and answer questions. Check out the links to garden kits from vendor Blazing Star Gardens for native plant garden inspiration. They offer free garden designs based on site conditions and plant height.

Thank you to Earth Day Volunteers!

We had a great turnout for the (almost) Earth Day downtown cleanup on April 20th! This event saw the roll out of the new community garden cleanup signage, designed and created by our own Kathy Ripke and Cathy Skalicky. Thanks to the more than eight volunteers and families that helped brighten up our downtown gardens in advance of our neighborhood moving into the metro-wide spotlight with our garage sales weekend!

Greenhouse Opening at Wirth on the Woods

On 4/15, the Wirth on the Woods property team opened up the community greenhouse which was added to the development as a unique amenity for residents. Earlier in the month, the initial gathering of the gardening group within the development met to discuss plans for the space and begin to put together organizing principles and operating procedures. As with any new community endeavor, there are no shortage of details to figure out, from security precautions to plant and media selection, to watering and care planning, to harvest protocols, the group is mobilizing quickly to get organized for the growing season. So far the group has identified two treasurers, two secretaries, 15 members (and growing!) to maintain their 6 outside beds 6x3, 1 greenhouse bed 12x3, and 6 container gardening tables. A formal Grand Opening for the greenhouse was planned for April 30th.

Next Garden Committee Meeting

Monday, May 13, 7-8:30pm, location to be determined. Check back at bmna.org/events for the latest info. Join us to talk about community garden work day events, improvement projects, gardening fun and learning activities. Regardless of skill level, we could use your help! And keep an eye out for our signs to join in the fun on any workday.

The Next Generation of Parks Event Series Presents:

Blackwaters, a documentary film screening and discussion with its cast and creators

When: 6:30 p.m., Thursday, May 16
Where: Minneapolis Institute of Art
Tickets: Always Free •
 Sign Up tickets.artsmia.org/events

Join filmmakers and the Minneapolis Parks Foundation for a community-wide discussion about how BIPOC communities are reclaiming and reframing the great outdoors.

For five Black men, a fly-fishing expedition into the arctic becomes an exploration of what it means to be a person of color in wild places in Blackwaters, a new documentary film by director Chad Brown. The Minneapolis Parks Foundation, in partnership with the Cultural Wellness Center, Melanin in Motion, Minneapolis

Institute of Art, and the University of Minnesota Department of Forest Resources, is pleased to present the film's first Minneapolis screening, followed by a discussion with cast members on May 16, at 6:30 p.m. at Minneapolis Institute of Art. A powerful story about trauma and healing, set against the beauty of Gates of the Arctic National Park, Blackwaters is a call to action about making wild spaces where everyone belongs.

The Minneapolis Parks Foundation is committed to creating inclusive spaces. If you plan to attend this event and need to request a reasonable accommodation, please contact Christine Moir at 612.354.7513 or cmoir@mplsparksfoundation.org by May 10.

Garlic Mustard Weeding

It's the season when we make more space for native plants by weeding garlic mustard.

We work adjacent to Eloise Butler Wildflower Garden in Theodore Wirth Park. The Garden itself is maintained by dedicated Minneapolis Park Board staff and is in great shape! Our work helps protect their efforts.

Come lend a hand as we expand this protective zone, which has become a valuable natural area in its own right.

The dates for weeding garlic mustard are:

Sunday, April 28, 2-4:30
 Saturday, May 4, 2-4:30
 Saturday, May 18, 2-4:30

The work is somewhat like pulling dandelions, but easier. We use hand dandelion pullers (much like a screw driver) to loosen the soil to pull up the root. Then we bag them. That's it! You can take some home and make pesto if you wish!

Follow signs from the MAIN GARDEN GATE to the weeding site outside the garden.

No need to register ahead of time. If you know you are coming, let us know, but come regardless!

No experience necessary. We provide tools, bags, training and treats.

The Garden has a small lot. If it is full, go to the Wirth Beach parking lot on Glenwood and walk in.

There may be ticks and poison ivy in the area. Dress appropriately (long sleeves, pants, and closed-toe shoes) We supply gloves.

Clean Your Tools

To prevent the spread of bird flu and invasive species such as jumping worms, please clean your tools and bird feeders before bringing them to a swap or before using items you took home.

Wash bird feeders, bird houses, bird baths and all tools with hot soapy water and spray them with a bleach solution or let them soak in a bleach water solution for 10 minutes. Let them completely dry before using them.

Bryn Mawr Active Transportation Committee Hosts Successful First Bike Ride of the Season

The Bryn Mawr Active Transportation Committee hosted its first group bike ride of the season on April 6th in collaboration with the Minneapolis PieCycle Club. The ride was a resounding success - one member of the committee counted 51 bikes! Bikers of all ages enjoyed beautiful weather, connecting with other riders, and seeing neighborhood sites such as Wirth Beach House, Cedar Lake, and the bike skills park at Bryn Mawr Meadows. The 8 mile ride traveled through Bryn Mawr and adjoining neighborhoods, finishing at B'beri Desserts at Alliance Francaise with croissants, other pastries, and cold beverages. If you'd like to join an upcoming ride, watch for updates on the Active Transportation Instagram page (@activetransit.brynmawr). The Active Transportation Committee is planning one ride per month during warm weather months.

I've been doing a little Bryn Mawr history research because the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church, of which I'm a member, is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year. And in so doing, I've a little bit I thought might be of broader interest.

I found this 1916 Minneapolis Journal article touting Bryn Mawr as a great place to live. I love that one of the features of moving here is that all the residences were supplied with Glenwood-Inglewood spring water. The relatively modern brick structures in the fields off of Chestnut at the end of Thomas are pump houses for that spring water, and the offices of the Glenwood-Inglewood Water Company are still in use by Utepils.

William Henry Fruen was digging, of all things, a trout pond in 1884 and struck spring water. He and his descendants parlayed this discovery into a very successful business. In 1913 a typhoid epidemic hit Minneapolis, and Glenwood-Inglewood's 35 water wagons drawn by 70 horses supplied clean water to the frightened folks of Minneapolis. The Fruen's also owned the grain elevators and mill still standing close to Utepils, and the 'Fruen Mansion' is still a lovely home at Hawthorne and Russell.

The streetcar station mentioned in the article was at Laurel and Oliver. I believe this is a picture of the station. The sign on the building talks about the Thorpe Bros. and they owned many acres of Bryn Mawr land, platting it out in house-sized lots for sale. The smaller sign on the building is about the Sunday School, which was an outpost of the big Westminster Presbyterian Church downtown. This Bryn Mawr Sunday School was organized into what is now Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church on Cedar Lake Road.

One of the 'three major thoroughfares' mentioned, Superior Boulevard, was later renamed Wayzata Boulevard, and eventually became 394. Laurel Avenue used to run all the way to downtown and had the streetcar line running along it as well. The Northrup Collegiate School became Blake, and its building is still in use down by the Sculpture Garden. What's referred to as Glenwood Park is now Theodore Wirth Park and is indeed "the greatest park endowment of the city."

We want to hear from you!

Bryn Mawr's Active Transportation Committee would like your thoughts on traffic calming.

The Bryn Mawr Bugle is an open-forum newspaper published by the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association. Content is based entirely on volunteer submissions which may be emailed to bugle@bmna.org. Articles will be printed at the discretion of the Editor. The Bryn Mawr Bugle is published every month except January. Distribution is free to Bryn Mawr residents; copies are also available at the Bryn Mawr Market, Bryn Mawr Mobil and Cuppa Java. Opinion articles represent the opinion of the writer, not necessarily those of the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association or the Editor of the Bugle. Submissions may be edited for length without altering the letter writer's message. Under the law, writers, like journalists, may not commit libel, be obscene, reveal names of juveniles accused of crime, invade personal space, or incite to riot.

GENERAL ADVERTISING POLICIES: All ad copy is subject to approval by the paper, which reserves the right to reject or request changes to an ad. Ad placement does not imply endorsement by the BMNA. The advertiser, not the paper, is responsible for the truthful content of the ad.
