Buckthorn: If We Each Do a Little, We Can All Do a Lot

Please join us!

Saturday, October 15th and Sunday, October 16th from 1-4pm we will be clearing buckthorn in Bassett Creek Park (enter from Chestnut alley between Vincent and Upton).

Just show up anytime between 1 and 4pm and you're free to decide how long you can stay. No experience needed. You'll quickly learn how to identify and remove buckthorn.

This is our 4th year clearing buckthorn from Bassett Creek Park and we'd love your help to keep making progress.

Neighbors (and their dogs) who are in the park regularly have noticed the difference — a more open, more walkable, and more beautiful park. Clearing buckthorn is rewarding way to spend an hour or two in the woods in autumn in your own neighborhood. Please join us!

the complex interrelationships that keep these plants, insects, and wildlife in balance.

Why do we want to remove it?

1. Buckthorn reduces diversity. It easily outcompetes native shrubs for light and moisture, which greatly reduces the abundance and diversity of plants. Fewer varieties of native plants and shrubs support fewer varieties of insects, birds, and other wildlife.

2. It significantly alters the experience of taking a walk in the woods. "Walking in the woods" comes to mean walking on a path between encroaching thickets of buckthorn. Woodlands infested with buckthorn are no longer places to be explored and played in—for children or adults—because buckthorn thickets make it virtually impossible to get into —or even see intoHow is it removed? Small seedlings (less than 1 inch in diameter) can be pulled by hand. A very sturdy tool, a "weed wrench" is used to mechanically uproot larger shrubs. (We have these weed wrenches and train you to use them.) The largest trees must be cut and the stumps treated with herbicides (by Park Board staff only).

— Buckthorn Removal

What is buckthorn and why should I care? Here are some answers from Liz Anderson (Area 7) and Welby R. Smith's Trees and Shrubs of Minnesota (University of Minnesota Press, 2008):

What is buckthorn? Common buckthorn was brought to North America from its native Europe sometime prior to 1850. It was intended for use as a hedge plant, but it proved to be extremely invasive and quickly escaped into the wild. In Minnesota, it has now spread over most of the state. Minnesota law classifies it as a restricted noxious weed that cannot be sold or transported in the state.

Why is it a problem? Buckthorn grows quickly in the open, in brushy habitats, and in woodlands. Once you recognize it, you see it everywhere It can form nearly impenetrable thickets in forests. Buckthorn has no natural biological controls in North America, which means it lacks the woods.

What does it look like? Buckthorn ranges f rom small seedlings to bushy shrubs to small t rees (up to 35 feet high). It's most easily identified in the fall, when its leaves stay dark green and remain on the shrubs long after all other leaves have fallen.

his year's BMNA Harvest Dinner has been rescheduled from its usual late-October date, to Thursday, November 17. This change in date is a retum to the roots of the event which promises to be a fun opportunity to connect with neighbors before winter's cold blows us all indoors.

The Bryn Mawr Harvest Dinner was started by the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church. When I moved to the neighborhood in 1993, the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association was co-hosting the event. It was held at the church, the Thursday before Thanksgiving. When the addition linking Bryn Mawr Elementary and Anwatin Middle School was built, the BMNA used NRP (Neighborhood Revitalization Program) dollars to put in a community kitchen and the event was moved to the school.

After a couple years, the BMNA and the church ended their partnership on the Harvest Dinner. The church continued to hold its Harvest Dinner in mid-November and the Neighborhood Association gave their event a Halloween spin and moved it to late October.

There is a lot more to the story than just the facts, of course. But the bottom line is that this year, costumes are out and turkeys are in! One reason for the change is that for the past eight years, the downtown businesses have held their event, The Sip and Stroll in mid-October. Our hard-working Neighborhood Coordinator, Patty was experiencing "event fatigue" and to some degree so were the participants as evidenced by dwindling attendance.

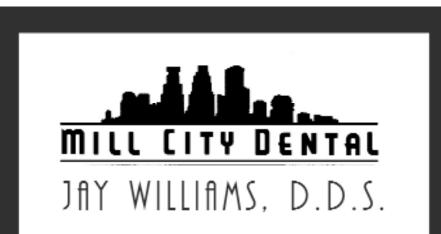

This year's Sip and Stroll is Oct. 13. It is fun night on which our fabulous downtown businesses take the lead. All you have to do is show up and enjoy their hospitality! The refreshments are free but bring some form of payment to take advantage of the many specials offered that evening. As an incentive to visit all the participating establishments, pick up a punch card and have each proprietor add their stamp. Put your name and phone number on the back of your completed card and leave it in the jar at Cuppa Java. At 8:45 cards will be drawn and prizes given.

Many people linger at Cuppa Java until closing time at 10:30pm. You will have a full month to recover before dusting off your Bryn Mawr community event smile again. So tune in to in the next edition of the Bugle for details about the new/old Harvest Dinner.

In honor of Bryn Mawr's beloved Sip and Stroll event, this month's Fascinating Folks is a favorite merchant-Greg Griffith-owner of Trappings- known for his beautiful store and creative and ever changing window displays.

A Dream Realized

Greg's dream was to open his own store. Having worked in retail since college, he earned his "pedigree stripes" at Nordstrom climbing the corporate ladder. When he found a store front available in Bryn Mawr, it was a "no-brainer" and he opened his own store. Friends brought Greg along to a Saturnalia event a year earlier and he described the Bryn Mawr neighbors standing around open fires and enjoying sleigh rides & Santa Clause in the falling snow. "It was like I was on a movie set," says Griffith, just idyllic.

Trappings

Previously, the space currently housing Greg's store had been a barber shop, a drycleaners, a hardware store and then finally an antique store. Now its home to Trappings, a men's clothing store, which carries a mix of casual sportswear, accessories, gifts, new and vintage barware. My husband loves the variety of shirts and patterns available at Trappings. When I walk into Trappings to talk with Greg, I feel like I'm walking into a catalogue shoot. Greg has stylized every corner of the store to make it feel nostalgic and elegant.

The word trappings is defined as "the articles of equipment or dress: of an outward omamental character." That's exactly what one feels when walking into Trappings. The walls are a domed with artwork, portraits and photos that harken to the past. Many photos are from Greg's childhood growing up in Dayton, Ohio, "keeps my family close to me," Griffith says. Mpls/StPaul magazine compared Trappings to a Wes Anderson film – very "Budapest Hotel." Greg's mission at Trappings is to provide a fun, visually exciting, shopping experience and offer tasteful product at the best value. Greg's relationships in the menswear business allow him to procure opportunity buys and pass the savings on to his customers. "We just want our customers to have a fun easy shopping experience when they come in and feel they purchased a good value when they leave", Greg says. On Fridays & Saturdays customers frequently ask "is it Happy Hour yet?" Greg's response, "we never want to disappoint so we make it happen!"

Mr. Griffith

Greg, along with his partner Michael live in Lowery Hill and enjoy cooking and entertaining for friends and family. They also have their favorite go to restaurants and enjoy walks around the Lakes.

Greg is a passionate merchant and it is apparent in his care of Trappings. Stop in during Sip and Stroll to experience new fall collections, spirits, live music and receive 20% off your purchase.

Light Rail Transit and Bassett Creek Trigger New Development in Bryn Mawr and Harrison Neighborhoods

By Lee Munnich

The recent decision by the Metro Council, the County Transit Improvement Board (CTIB), and Hennepin County to complete the local funding of the Southwest Light Rail Transit (SWLRI) project may give a boost to development projects on the drawing boards in the Bryn Mawr and Harrison neighborhoods. If you've been in the North Loop area of downtown Minneapolis, east Minneapolis along the Mississippi, or the West Market area on Glenwood Avenue lately, you will get some idea of the potential for new urban development, revitalizing old industrial and underutilized areas of neighborhoods near downtown.

For the past ten years the City of Minneapolis has been working with a group of Harrison and Bryn Mawr residents and businesses in planning for this development through the Bassett Creek Valley Redevelopment Oversight Committee (ROC). A Bassett Creek Valley Master Plan has been in place since 2007, but the SWLRT funding decision and final action by the Federal Transit Administration (FTA) in coming months is likely to help get these developments moving. In addition, Hennepin County has a Southwest LRT Community Works Steering Committee that is focusing on encouraging transit-oriented housing development along the corridor. The Metro Council will be providing brownfield grants to clean up polluted soils in old industrial sites to encourage new development in the transit corridors.

The strong Twin Cities economy, an urban renaissance in Minneapolis making urban living and amenities more attractive to millennials and older residents as well, and a transitway network that will offer four LRT stops in the Bryn Mawr and Harrison neighborhoods, will all contribute to stimulating new development in the two neighborhoods. The Bryn Mawr Station and the Bassett Creek Valley Station on the Southwest LRT (Green Line Extension) and the Van White Boulevard Station and Penn Avenue Station along the Bottineau LRT (Blue Line Extension) will provide convenient access to the transitway system for these new developments.

The first developments are likely to occur in the Harrison neighborhood between Bassett Creek and 2nd Avenue North and between Cedar Lake Road and Van White Parkway. Wellington Properties has purchased the Leef Holdings property just east of Cedar Lake Road and has plans to convert about 50,000 square feet of the existing industrial building into creative office space tentatively called Currie Market. Wellington plans to raze part of the structure and is working with Artspace to develop 110 mixed-income apartments. Wellington's acquisition also includes land on adjacent blocks, where additional residential units are planned, according to David Wellington, director of acquisitions and development for Wellington Management.

While David Wellington points out that the new Currie Market development will be an eightminute walk from the Bassett Creek Valley Station and a ten-minute walk from the Van White Boulevard Station, he does not view the LRT lines as driving their development. "Opportunities like this are perhaps not a direct result of LRT, but nearby transit – especially LRT – helps developments like this succeed and get to scale more rapidly." Wellington also views Bassett Creek as a "huge untapped amenity" near the Currie Market development that could make the area more attractive for their development and others as well.

Beth Grosen, the City of Minneapolis Sr. Project Coordinator for this part of North Minneapolis, says that the City and the ROC are looking at ways of opening up access to Bassett Creak by relocating the westemportion of the City's car impound lot and perhaps building a new bridge to that area from the north. Grosen says the City of Minneapolis will be issuing a request for proposals (RFP) to develop three parcels near Van White Boulevard and 2nd Avenue North this fall.

The Bassett Creek Valley Station near Van White Boulevard and I-394 has long been considered a major opportunity for transit-oriented development in Minneapolis. Ryan Companies held the development rights for the Linden Yards area (also known as the "banana" because of its shape) until the end of 2015 when those rights expired. Ryan developed a concept plan for the property that included residential and office space. Grosen says that the City will likely issue a new RFP for the western portion of the Linden Yards area in 2017.

The area south of I-394 and west of Penn Avenue offers another opportunity for new development in Bryn Mawr. In 2011 a graduate student team from the University of Minnesota's Humphrey School of Public Affairs did a study of the development potential for the area on the bluff overlooking Cedar Lake that would link to the Bryn Mawr Station by a walk bridge over the railroad tracks. The student's capstone study for the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association included sketch designs for residential development. The study was used by

BMNA to argue the importance to the Metro Council of keeping the station at Penn Avenue in the SWLRT plan. The SWLRT final plan now includes the station at Penn, which has now been renamed the Bryn Mawr Station. The capstone study is available on the BMNA website at

http://www.bmna.org/wpcontent/uploads/SWLRT_Bryn_Mawr _Small_Area_Plan_May_3_2011.pdf

How can I help?

Here are two ways to help restore Bassett Creek Park:

1. Come to our event, Saturday, October 15 and/or Sunday, October 16, 1:00-4:00. We'll have plenty of weed wrenches and we'll teach you how to use them. Come for as much or as little time as you have. Wear appropriate shoes and clothes that can get dirty, and bring gloves. Meet at the woods on Chestnut, between Upton and Vincent.

2. We have several weed wrenches available for you to use anytime, here in the neighborhood. Borrow one from Liz, 612-834-1189, lizannanderson@gmail.com, or Gary and Leni, 612-374-4171, morgang51@gmail.com, when you get the urge to be in the woods and pull some buckthorn on your own. (And removing buckthorn in your yard is important too. Even one small buckthorn plant's berries can get eaten and deposited by birds elsewhere, making many more buckthorn plants.)

Visit our Facebook page facebook.com/buckthombegone and Like or Follow our page to keep in touch.

Note: Our group exists in partnership with Minneapolis Park Board's Environmental Stewardship Volunteer Program. Neighbors remove small to medium-sized buckthorn by hand or with weed wrenches. Park Board staff haul it away.

Playground at Bassett's Creek Park

he Bassett's Creek Park Playground and Site Improvements Project is nearing the end of its planning phase. Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board (MPRB) staff presented the final concept to the community at a public meeting on Sept. 26. The playground design will feature natural materials and earthtoned colors to fit the natural setting of the park. An ADA accessible walkway from Chestnut Avenue down to the new play area is included in the concept, along with new benches, picnic tables, bike racks, a sidewalk along the south edge of the park, and the reconstruction of the trail along Bassett Creek.

At the Sept. 26 meeting, community members generally favored the concept with a few minor suggestions for specific play equipment. A

Henry Kuehn, 1224 Lakeview, identified them all with the exception of 3 letters wrong in one name. He wins $5. Louise Olson (wife of Dr. Geo. Olson in the picture), now of 7500 York South, Edina, identified all but two; a team effort in the name of Laura Dickson, 400 Groveland, identified all but one.

Mr. Kuehn writes, "When I saw the photo in the Bugle of the Bryn Mawr PTA group, I remembered there was a similar one in a photo album my wife Alma kept. I found it and the occasion when the photo was taken was a party given for several Bryn Mawr school teachers who were retiring. Former PTA presidents arranged for this farewell occasion which was in May, 1956. All four of our children attended Bryn Mawr School, as we have lived at 1224 Lakeview since 1928. My wife Alma died in 1966. The B.M. PTA was an unusually active and enthusiastic organization, and it worked cordially and effectively with the teaching staff. Most, if not all, of the houses in my general area have over the years changed owners several times. Perhaps I am the only one in the general area who has lived and still lives in the same house going back to 1928 when it was built. Your Bugle editors are doing a splendid job. Congratulations!"

Thanks, Mr. K., Congratulations to you!

Bruce Jones, 1924 Laurel, who captained Laura Dickson's team, writes that Mrs. Dickson identified most of the names. "She also solicited the help of Bryn Mawr resident Katherine Bergford (pictured). Laura's husband, Dr. Wm. Dickson (pictured) was my mother's uncle as well as the family dentist. I might note that even though I wasn't brought up in Bryn Mawr, I am the fourth generation of my family to live here. My mother and both of her parents were brought up here. Another generation back are a number of my great-grandparents who settled on Russell and on Thomas! (Laura Dickson formerly lived at 440 Sheridan)

Laura Olson wrote, "We were residents of Bryn Mawr area for 46 years and were active in the PTA organization while our children were active in the school there. We happened to be present at this celebration of the school when 4 teachers were honored. Many of those pictured are not living at the present time. We enjoyed our years there very much and were reluctant to leave the area, but time marches on. (The Olsons lived at 1033 Thomas Ave. S.)

Genevieve Lyman was the person who supplied us with the picture and the suggestion that we run it as a contest to see how many could be identified. Thank you, Genevieve?

I'm gathering information about the homes (and families) that had been in the Bryn Mawr Meadows through the 1960s. Some of those families stayed in Bryn Mawr after their homes were demolished for the park expansion. If you would like to share your story, please contact me: Kevina Munnich kmunnich@gmail.com. I think it's important to record this history before we forget... Thinking of buying or selling a home in 2016? I can help, call Today!

Help Students Vote on Election Day

Volunteers needed at Minneapolis Polling Places.

Since 2004, in partnership with the Minneapolis Public Schools and the Minneapolis City Elections Department, Kids Voting Minneapolis (KVM) has offered Minneapolis K-12 students the opportunity to go to the polls on Election Day with their parents/guardians and vote. Students vote in their own voting booth, on their own ballot, and get an "I Voted" sticker. This authentic voting experience furthers civic education and helps students understand the importance of voting.

For this to happen, KVM needs 400 community volunteers who staff the 130 city precinct polling places to assist students as they vote. We a re in need of volunteers for Nov. 8. This is a wonderful, one-time volunteer opportunity plus a one hour training session. The Election Day shifts are 3 hours— 2:00-5:00pm or 5:00-8:00pm. If you can help, contact the KVM Volunteer Coordinator, Jennifer Nilsen at mplskidsvoting@gmail.com.

Kids Voting Minneapolis is a community-based, nonpartisan, nonprofit organization working to prepare Minneapolis' 50,000 K-12 students to be educated, informed voters. Kids Voting Minneapolis combines civic learning in the classroom, family dialogue at home, and an authentic voting experience to prepare the next generation of citizens.

Minneapolis Board of Education approves resolution to place property tax referendum renewal on Nov. 8 ballot

The Minneapolis Board of Education has approved a resolution asking voters to renew an existing property tax referendum of $1,604.31 per student. The renewal decision will go to Minneapolis voters on Nov. 8.

The current property tax refere ndum, which generates 13 percent of Minneapolis Public Schools' (MPS') 2016-17 budget, will expire this year. If approved by voters, the renewal will extend the funding for nine years. Property taxes for most Minneapolis homeowners are not projected to increase if the refere ndum passes.

MPS relies on referendum resources to manage class sizes and provide supportive services and activities for students. This year, referendum revenue is funding more than 750 positions, including 591 classroom teachers, 82 academic and behavioral specialists and 81 teachers and support staff for English learners. It also funds math, science and literacy curriculum and materials as well as classroom technology.

MPS is committed to using referendum funding to impact student achievement. Resources and information, including the official ballot language, property tax information and links to district budgets, are available at www.mpls.k12.mn.us/referendum2016.

Schools Committee Supports Renewal of Public Schools Funding Referendum

n Election Day, November 8th, Minneapolis voters will decide whether or not to renew the current public school levy. Renewing the levy will not increase property taxes, it is a continuation of current rates. The district's current referendum expires after the next school year. Last approved by Minneapolis voters in 2008, the expiring referendum will bring $74 million into the district for the 2016-17 school year. This accounts for approximately 13 percent of the district's overall budget.

Funding from this referendum would be used to manage class sizes across the district and to provide supportive services and activities for students. Overall, funding for approximately 750 educator positions in the district would be lost without the referendum dollars.

On September 22, the BMNA Schools Committee voted to support this referendum. Part of the mission of the Schools Committee is to support and strengthen our community schools. Supporting the upcoming referendum is supporting and strengthening our entire district. As supporters of the referendum, we will assist the "VOTE YES FOR KIDS" campaign by providing information at various neighborhood and school events to promote and educate voters about this very important referendum.

The BMNA Schools Committee will report to the BMNA board on Oct. 10th and ask for the entire organizations support.

SCHOOL DISTRICT QUESTION RENEWAL OF EXPIRING REFERENDUM REVENUE AUTHORIZATION

The Board of Special School District No. 1 (Minneapolis Public Schools) has proposed to renew the school district's existing referendum revenue authorization of $1,604.31 per pupil, which is scheduled to expire after taxes payable in 2016. The revenue will be used to manage class sizes and provide supportive services and activities for students. The proposed referendum revenue authorization would increase each year by the rate of inflation and be applicable for nine years, beginning with taxes payable in 2017, unless otherwise revoked or reduced as provided by law.

Shall the increase in the revenue proposed by the board of Special School District No. 1 be approved?

BY VOTING "YES" ON THIS BALLOT QUESTION, YOU ARE VOTING TO EXTEND AN EXISTING PROPERTY TAX REFERENDUM THAT IS SCHEDULED TO EXPIRE.

Here is a sample of what you will see on the ballot. NOTE: this is a renewal of a levy that is currently in place and not new tax.

Area 2 Good Neighbors

live in Cedar Lake Townhomes, across the street from Lurie accounting firm. I contacted Lurie as a neighbor and asked if there was any way they could redirect security lighting on their building down as it was illuminating my bedroom. Within hours I received a response acknowledging my email and stating that Lurie indeed wanted to be a good neighbor and would contact their vendor for a solution. Over the next few weeks I received 2 progress updates and on August 29th their vendor installed caps that redirect the light down. I want to call out Lurie for being a great neighbor, they were in no way obligated to alter their exterior lighting for me.

Bryn Mawr Movie Night to Feature Award-Winning Documentary

ryn Mawr Church invites everyone to a special October 28th showing of How Love Won:?The Fight for Marriage Equality in Minnesota, a documentary produced and directed by Michael McIntee that won the Audience Choice Award for Best Minnesota-Made Feature Documentary at the Minneapolis St. Paul International Film Festival. The film is the inspiring and uplifting story of how savvy organizing, a massive number of volunteers, and a secret weapon turned the tide in Minnesota after 30 other states in a row had voted against same-sex marriage. Simon Peter Groebner of the StarTribune said: "Michael McIntee's doc shows how the hard work of volunteers, brilliant use of empathy and an emphasis on love over politics produced a historic shift in public opinion.... Don't plan on having dry eyes for much of these 81 minutes."

And Steve Lenius of Lavender Magazine said: "I invite you to watch this film and see if you don't laugh, cry, and feel a renewed sense of pride in our community, our neighbors, our allies, and our state.

Bryn Mawr Moms on the Search for Good Books & Food

n 1947 one of the first public displays of compulsive hoarding came to light. The Collyer brothers were found dead in their brownstone in tony New York City, buried under years of accumulation of newspapers, books, furniture, musical instruments and trash. According to a New York Times article in 2006, a dwelling jammed rafter-high with junk is referred to by East Coast rescue personnel, "with dismay and no small degree of respect, as a "Collyer's Mansion", the phrase harkening to the Collyer's' house filled with 100 tons of stockpiled possessions.

E.L. Doctorow is best known for his works of historical fiction; he puts his characters, whether real or fiction, in historical contexts. Homer and Langley is based on the real-life story of the Collyer brothers. Doctorow, who died in 2015, blends fact and fiction, placing Homer and Langley in historical events of nearly the entire 20th century, confronting the issues of the era including the 1918 influenza, World Wars I and II, the Great Depression, Japanese interment, and the civil rights movement. Doctorow creates the story that makes meaning and understanding of the brothers' behavior. Langley is a victim of mustard gassing in WWI. He returns home as a troubled man full of ideas and theories about mankind. His Theory of Replacements, the idea that "everything in life gets replaced. We are our parents' replacements just as they were replacements of the previous generation" drives his belief that we can't leam from what has happened and that no one is special.

Homer, who goes slowly blind in his teens, is the brother who really sees and feels life. He craves love. "I still had hopes of finding someone to love but felt as I had never before that my sightlessness was a physical deformity as likely to drive away a comely woman as would a hunch of the back or a crippled leg. My sense of myself as damaged suggested the wiser course of seclusion as a means of avoiding pain, sorrow, and humiliation." Ultimately, as he also loses his hearing, he becomes cut off from the love and life he yearns for. As the brothers become increasingly isolated from the community and insulated by their possessions and fear, the story sinks into a depressing, although humorous, view of their narrowing circles and hope. Although they are retreating from the outside world, they have interactions with cooks, housekeepers, gangsters, prostitutes, lovers, and hippies that expose the evolution of U.S. society through those who live on the edge.

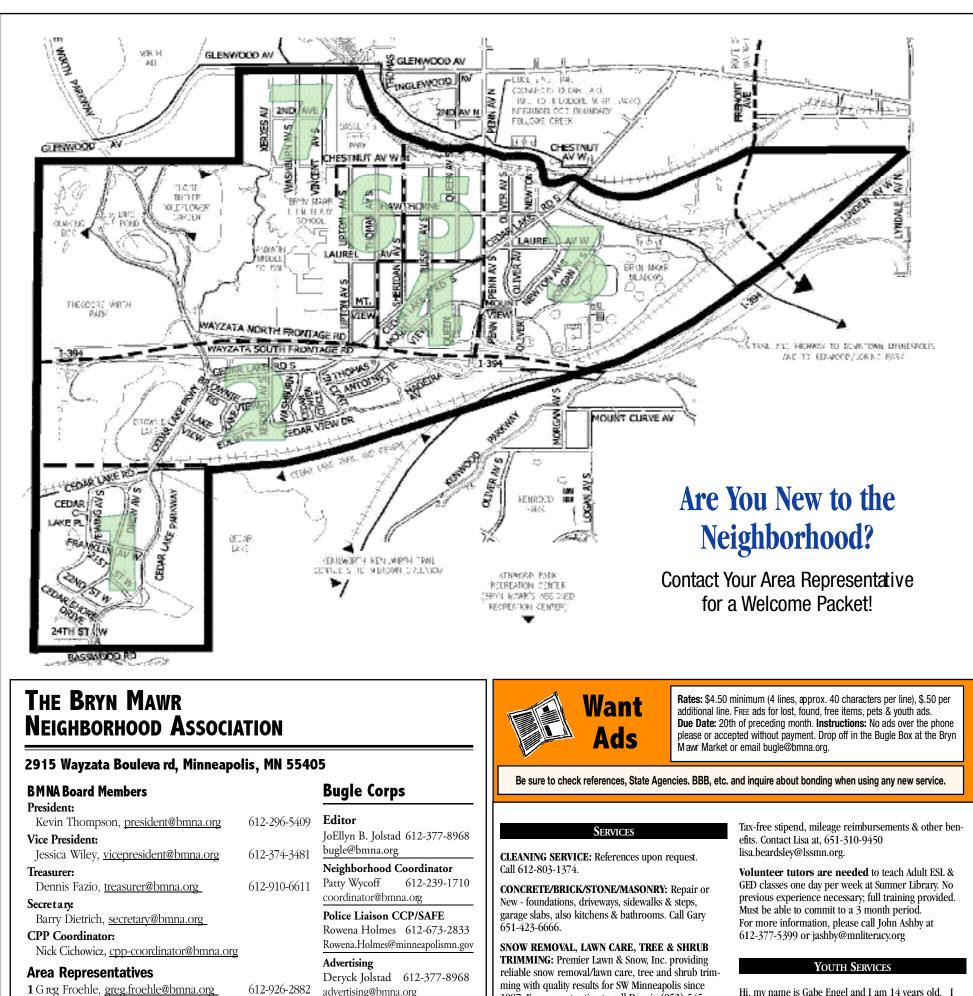

You want to see this movie."

Michael McIntee will join us for the showing at Bryn Mawr Church on Friday, October 28, starting at 7:00 p.m., and will be available afterwards for Q&A. There is no ticket charge; a freewill offering will be put towards increasing distribution of the film to a wider audience.

The two brothers perfectly complement each other- and truly love each other. But they can't save each other.
