2016 BMNA Ice Cream Scoop-Off

Thursday, August 18

It's Minnesota. Of course the weather was a factor in holding the BMNA Ice Cream Scoop-Off- we had to reschedule from our July date due to oppressive heat. But on August 18, the rain paused and a temperature of 85 was perfect for gathering on Cedar Lake Road to mingle with neighbors and taste ice cream.

This is not your run-of-the-mill ice cream social. In Bryn Mawr we hold a contest to see which flavors are a favorite with neighbors through a very sophisticated voting system; put your sticky dot on the flavor you like best!

We had 10 flavors this year with donations from four vendors

Ben and Jerry's and Sebastian Joe's have been stalwart supporters of this event for many years and we salute them for their commitment to our neighborhood. Milkjam Creamery and Pump-house Creamery were new this year and we welcome their involvement. Our heartfelt thanks to each of these companies.

And the 2016 Ice Scoop Off winner is... Milkjam Ridin' Duuurty made with Oreo milk with Oreo chunks and salted peanut butter. Ben and Jerry's Coffee, Coffee, BuzzBuzzBuzz! took 2nd place; coffee ice cream with espresso bean fudge chunks. There was a lot of talk about Pumphouse Creamery's lavender ice cream and the Pikachu mango chili sorbet from Milkjam, so don't rule those out when you make it a habit to visit these four ice cream stores.

The over 450 neighbors who came used all compostable products (bowls, spoons, napkins, and water cups) to make this our first "waste free" event.

The threat of rain discouraged The Percolators (www.percolatorsband.com) from plugging in, but we enjoyed their acoustic music while sampling all the unique flavors. A final thank you to former BMNA President (and Scoop-off founder) Marlin Possehl, Area 3 and all our volunteers. You make it happen.

Officer Haugland and K-9 Beau visit with some young Area 4 residents on National Night Out.

The 33rd Annual National Night Out

National Night Out took place Tuesday, August 2 nationwide, and once again, Bryn Mawr was abuzz with block parties.

Minneapolis is annually one of the largest participants in NNO, as the city once again led all cities of 300,000+ populations with the most registered NNO events at approximately 1,300.

NNO strives to create a strong bond between law enforcement and the community while also offering a place for neighborhoods to get together and discuss ways to keep their communities safe.

Call to Order and Introductions

Kevin called the meeting to order at 7:03.

Approval of Minutes and Agenda

Review of July Board meeting minutes. No changes were expressed. Motion by Kevin to approve. Seconded. Carried.

City of Minneapolis:

Councilmember Lisa Goodman's Report

- There is a variance requested for several properties, specifically the removal of trees.
- We still need election judges for elections stations.
- Hennepin County has a hazardous waste curbside collection coming up.

Neighborhood Coordinator Report Patty Wycoff

- Last meeting at Presbyterian Church. Next meeting is at Bryn Mawr School.
- Ice Cream social date was moved. Everything is all set for the 18th. Volunteers needed. Costs are up a bit compared to previous years. Can pay via Square. Please contact Patty to volunteer. It is a great way to meet your neighbor. All are welcome! Suggested donation is $7 per family, $5 individual, donations are appreciated, but not required.

Webmaster Report: Jeremy Staffeld

Statistics since July top page visits were up (new visitors), aside from the garden tour, traffic is highest in events and bugle. Secretary will email past minutes to Jeremy.

Standing Committee Reports

Communications

Creative Citymaking Collaboration: with the deadline looming prior to the next board meeting, BMNA will not be applying.

Schools

4th Thursday of September is schedule for the Schools Committee.

Gardens

- Garden Tour went off beautifully. It was a wonderful day. The Community Center was a great space to check in, though there was some initial confusion from the minor change in check-in venue. Very positive feedback, with one informative feedback that there was some repeat.
- There isn't an exact ticket count yet but it was approximately 340 tickets. Master Gardeners used to partake, answer questions, but the last two times that has not occurred. If you miss the master gardeners, please contact Patty and let her know. Discussions of expanding the garden tour to include hard-scapes, urban farming, and rain gardens.
- Cuppa Java and BMNA sponsor lunch for allowing people to see your wonderful work, so think about it for next year!

Reports From Affiliated Groups

ROC Update—Vida Ditter

Leaf Brothers property being sold. Artists lofts, studios, and businesses. Corner of James and 2nd, part of the Bassett Creek Valley area.

SWLRT Update —Vida Ditter/Barry Schade

Because the legislature has delayed the approval of $180M, there is now a $19M delayment penalty. A special session is still an option.

Discussion around ridership on Green line, however ridership has been higher than predicted.

Discussion Items, New Business, Updates and Announcements

- Discussion around what the BMNA can and cannot do as a 501©(3)
- The Star Tribune posted Marjorie Moore Kadue obituary. Marjorie was a former resident of Bryn Mawr.

With no further reports or discussion, Kevin moved to adjourn. Seconded.

Meeting adjourned at 7:46pm

From the Editor

In preparation for the coming school year, I have been doing a lot of work around bias, equity and race. By “work” I mean reading, attending workshops, and seeing performances that can help me grow professionally and personally. I hope everyone went to see “Disgraced” at the Guthrie directed by neighbor Marcela Lorca. Such great work!

I have come to recognize race as a social construct created when a culturally diverse group of light-skinned people sought to distinguish themselves as superior in order to create a social and economic structure that favored them.

I read a wonderful article by Marion Wright Edelman. In it she quotes Bryan Stevenson, the founder and Executive Director of the Equal Justice Initiative. He says, “I don’t think the great evil of American slavery was involuntary servitude and forced labor. I think the great evil of American slavery was the narrative of racial difference that we created to legitimate it.”

He asserts that American slavery did not end in 1865, that it evolved into domestic terrorism of people based solely on their color. I was so moved when I read this. (If you are intrigued to read more, you can find it at www.childrensdefense.org “Childwatch column, August 5, 2016.)

As I said at the start of this, it is the beginning of another school year. In addition to the work I do directly with diverse youth, my heart and mind are always with Bryn Mawr and Anwatin. I am not sure there are enough words to express how glad I am that our children had the chance to learn and grow at these amazing places.

In addition to excellent teachers in a nurturing, differentiated environment, the opportunities to interact with a genuinely diverse population is something that all parents should seek out for their children. And to anyone who decided these schools were not the “best fit” for your child, I would say, “check your bias.”

Everyone (let me repeat EVERY-ONE) has bias. It’s not your fault. Bias is learned through experience. The question is, are your biases hurting someone else? Are they denying someone opportunities and keeping you (or your children) from living in a truly harmonious world?

Absolutely all of this is a work in progress. The more I learn about myself and race in America, the more I realize I have yet to learn. I hope everyone who starting reading this made it to the end and that I’ve given you something to ponder.

Something New

It was about two months ago that two friends took me to a new restaurant on Broadway, Breaking Bread Café. It was a great lunch, and it started me thinking about my neighborhood, Bryn Mawr.

I've been back to Breaking Bread Café several times since, and each time has been a delight. The menu has a global flare, and each item has had me coming back to request a repeat performance. The restaurant has comfortable indoor dining and a spacious outdoor patio. The staff includes at-risk youth from the area, all of who have welcomed me and my friends with friendly enthusiasm.

This is a big change for this Bryn Mawr resident. During my 30 years of living in this neighborhood, I have spent little time that I would call "a delight" north of Glenwood. Based on some of my early experiences, I've seldom gone north, except occasionally to North End Hardware, and more frequently to Milda's.

I've often been part of a neighborhood discussion about how Bryn Mawr is a South Minneapolis neighborhood and NOT part of North Minneapolis. Highway 394 has given us a northern identity that we have disputed and resisted. Many of us who have raised kids in Bryn Mawr, have insisted that the School District see us as "southern" to make sure that our kids have the option of good education.

Maybe, as Chris Etz told me recently, it is time to explore whether Bryn Mawr is actually "West Minneapolis." The concept emerged with the West End Development, and it is showing up more with projects close to home. The planned development in "east Bryn Mawr" adjacent to the SW LRT will do more to identify us as "west of downtown." We will no longer be just a residential neighborhood hidden among an assortment of parks.

I would welcome a discussion of what future identity we want for our neighborhood. We've wrestled with identities imposed on us in the past. Maybe we can shape our own.

In the meantime, check out the Breaking Bread Café. I'd probably drop what I'm doing to join you.

New Trash and Recycling Collection Vehicles Operate in Minneapolis' Regional Parks

Bins change from metal to plastic to improve trash and recycling pickup

The Minneapolis Park and Recreation Board (MPRB) is transitioning to a new trash and recycling process that makes collection safer, cheaper and more environmentally friendly. New plastic receptacles without liners (pictured above right) are replacing the old, round metal cans with plastic liners (pictured below). In addition, new collection vehicles are replacing the old system of manually emptying receptacles. This system has already been implemented at Minneapolis' neighborhood parks, now it's rolling out to larger, more popular regional parks like Minneapolis Chain of Lakes, Theodore Wirth and Minnehaha. Implementation at Regional Parks The new trash and recycling containers are arriving in batches of 100, not all at once. MPRB staff is working hard to install the new containers as soon as they arrive. Regional park users may notice lids on the old metal containers have been removed. This is because the metal lids damage the new collection vehicles. This is just a temporary measure until all of the new plastic containers can be installed. The MPRB is excited to complete its safer, cheaper and more environmentally friendly trash and recycling collection program and appreciates the public's patience while the program is implemented.

"THE OLD CABIN HAS COME ALIVE"

—by Molly Burke

Since Molly and Tim Burke, 1936 Drew South, began rebuilding their house two years ago, the old cabin has come alive through relics the Burkes have found. The house, built around 1900, was moved in 1939 from its original site on the shore of Brownie Lake by a gang of Cedar Lake neighbors who (if the tale isn't tall!) literally carried it on their backs. Once lowered into its present foundation on Drew Hill, the cabin was remodeled and modernized inside leaving only the graceful 19th century style sleeping porch. Tim found that the walls were insulated with 1939 newspapers. That year the cost of a movie at the Bryn Wood Theatre, Glenwood and Cedar Lake Road, was only 10 cents.

When Tim pried open a boarded trap door discovered under the carpet pad, he found no stash of hidden money, but in the attic he did find an elegant silk parasol. The delicate hand painted flowers on the porcelain handle reminded Molly of the days when Cedar Lake was a resort for the wealthy.

Many genteel folks from the Crocus Hill area of St. Paul kept cabins on Brownie and Cedar because they could travel on the convenient horse-drawn street car line (the precursor of Interstate 94!!) Ladies in starched blouses sat under sun parasols, and gentlemen in white shoes and straw hats shot golf on the Bryn Mawr Course (see History of the Calhoun-Igles Area).

The cabin at 1936 Drew has a new face, but its old skeleton, its beams, chimney and oak floor, have endured through many eras.

I'm gathering information about the homes (and families) that had been in the Bryn Mawr Meadows through the 1960s. Some of those families stayed in Bryn Mawr after their homes were demolished for the park expansion. If you would like to share your story, please contact me: Kevina Munnich - kmunnich@gmail.com. I think it's important to record this history before we forget...

Minneapolis Board of Education approves resolution to place property tax referendum renewal on Nov. 8 ballot

The Minneapolis Board of Education has approved a resolution asking voters to renew an existing property tax referendum of $1,604.31 per student. The renewal decision will go to Minneapolis voters on Nov. 8.

The current property tax referendum, which generates 13 percent of Minneapolis Public Schools' (MPS') 2016-17 budget, will expire this year. If approved by voters, the renewal will extend the funding for nine years. Property taxes for most Minneapolis homeowners are not projected to increase if the referendum passes.

MPS relies on referendum resources to manage class sizes and provide supportive services and activities for students. This year, referendum revenue is funding more than 750 positions, including 591 classroom teachers, 82 academic and behavioral specialists and 81 teachers and support staff for English learners. It also funds math, science and literacy curriculum and materials as well as classroom technology.

MPS is committed to using referendum funding to impact student achievement. Resources and information, including the official ballot language, property tax information and links to district budgets, are available at www.mpls.k12.mn.us/referendum2016.

Community Schools in Bryn Mawr

By Kristi Ward, Principal
Bryn Mawr Community School &
Ellen Shulman, Principal
Anwatin Middle School IB
and Spanish Dual Immersion

A new year is once again upon us. August always brings an air of anticipation and hope. Staff and students have arrived and are adjusting to the pace of school life. We are hopeful that your summer was a time for restful adventures and invigorating journeys. We also want to acknowledge that our Twin Cities community was crushed by tragedies that traumatically affected many of our children, families and staff members. We are here to support our community's healing and send restorative energy to all.

The Bryn Mawr schools—Bryn Mawr Community School and Anwatin Middle School are ready for a fantastic year filled with learning, friendships and fun. We want to thank you for your past commitments to our schools and look forward to our continued partnerships.

New at Bryn Mawr this year will be the launch of our Community Model. We have designed four smaller communities within our larger community. Each community has been specifically created to increase the academic and social emotional support for all students. We believe with strong relationships, strong community ties with high academic expectations, all students will show growth in their learning, while enjoying school.

This year marks Anwatin's 10th anniversary as a peace site. To ramp up our dedication to this initiative we will enhance our gardens, design a new mural and have a peace ceremony in the spring. Stay tuned for the many ways you can be involved with this project.

Thank you again for your support and commitment to the lives of Minneapolis children and the continued belief in our Community Schools.

BTW—do you know what Anwatin means? We will let you know next month.

Birch's on the Lake: Brewhouse and Supper Club
1310 Wayzata Blvd, Long Lake

There are so many choices for outdoor dining in the Twin Cities. Rick Nelson has run a number of articles in the Star Tribune this summer about the most enjoyable restaurant patios and decks. So why drive to Long Lake for dinner? Because it's a beautiful lake, a great restaurant, and easy parking not far from Bryn Mawr. We were surprised at how close Long Lake is; a 15 minute drive at rush hour using the HOV lane.

Birch's Supper Club was started in 2008 in downtown Long Lake. Founder Burt Joseph was looking to revitalize his club when he met a St. Louis based brewer, Brennan Greene. They joined efforts and moved to an iconic building on Long Lake in 2015. Birch's on the Lake is the latest in a long history of supper clubs that called the cabin-style building home, including The Hanson House in the 1960's and 70's, and Billy's Lighthouse, which closed in 2006 after a 21 year run.

Birch's serves classics like a relish tray, and fried fish, but also modern dishes like caramelized Brussels sprouts with bacon and blue cheese, which we loved. We tried the herb crusted walleye and shrimp and grits, both of which were tasty. The smoked baby backed ribs were good, but a bit dry.

Downstairs, the brewpub has a beer hall menu to complement Greene's craft beer. Birch's also features an outdoor patio overlooking Long Lake. Its first come-first served, but had a quick turnover on a Friday night.

The design downstairs feels like other brewpubs—a bit industrial. Upstairs blends a north feel with the ambiance of a Vegas lounge. We listened to piano music in the upstairs bar from our rounded booth, with a most lovely view of the lake.

Anwatin has been an International Baccalaureate World School since 2010

The IB Middle Years Programme is a challenging framework that encourages students to make practical connections between their studies and the real world. The MYP is inclusive by design; students of all interests and academic abilities can benefit from their participation.

Students at Anwatin will:

- ❖ be encouraged to think independently and drive their own learning
- ❖ become more culturally aware, through the development of a second language
- ❖ be able to engage with people in an increasingly globalized, rapidly changing world

We teach in teams by grade level.

Each grade level meets once a week to discuss team issues and individual student concerns.

Our behavior support specialists are "one team" because we believe that positive relationships are critical to success at this age.

The Bryn Mawr Bugle is an open-for-run newspaper published by the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association. Content is based entirely on volunteer submissions which may be emailed to bugle@bmna.org. Articles and letters to the editor will be printed at the discretion of the Editor. The Bryn Mawr Bugle is published every month except January. Distribution is free to Bryn Mawr residents; copies are also available at the Bryn Mawr Market, Bryn Mawr Mobil and Cuppa Java. Subscriptions are $21 per year. Opinion articles represent the opinion of the writer; not necessarily those of the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association or the Editor of the Bugle. The Bryn Mawr Bugle will print letters to the editor as space allows. Letters may be edited for length without altering the letter writer's message. Letters must be signed by the person who wrote them. Under the law; letter writers, like journalists, may not commit libel, be obscene, reveal names of juveniles accused of crime, invade personal space, or incite to riot.

Copy deadline for the October issue is September 20!

Display & Classified Ads are due September 20th. Ads must be pre-paid & camera ready.
