Remembering Keith Basinski

On Thurs. March 21st, 150+ Bryn Mawr and Harrison neighbors attended the screening of a documentary created on behalf of Keith Basinski and the lives he touched at Harrison Community Center. Keith Basinski delivered packages to Harrison and Bryn Mawr for 29 years. Keith was one of six victims shot at Accent Signage on Sept. 27th.

The idea for the documentary came from Area 6 resident, Iliana Wilson. She contacted neighbor/documentary filmmaker, Deacon Wamer (Area 4), and asked if he would create a film that would give neighbors an opportunity to share their stories about Keith.

The result is a touching, 8 minute documentary. The video can be viewed at <http://vimeo.com/59960284>.

From the Editor

In my column last month, I talked about how simple things can become turning points in your life. You live and work, meet people and stuff happens. But, how do those people and “stuff” alter the course of your life? Are you even aware that a change has occurred?

Many things can bring about change. Sometimes those things are huge and have a profound, immediate impact on many people. But sometimes a small thing can be the spark from which major change evolves.

The theme for National History Day this year is “Turning Points in History”. At the District History Day competition held at Anwatin Middle School last weekend, 60+ Minneapolis middle and high school students presented documentaries, websites, performances, essays and displays showing their research on historical turning points.

The excellence of the work and the variety of topics was truly remarkable. Of course, I am a bit of a history geek. I grew up in a home where discussions about history were regular fare around the dinner table. I was raised to appreciate the importance of history and its impact on modern society. I cannot help but think that this was not the norm for most kids of my generation and that it is even less prevalent now.

I wonder how the History Day competition will mark a turning point for the participants. Will success in this arena change a parent’s perception of a child or that child’s perception of themselves? Will a new passion inspired by their topic, bring about the next great, artist, politician, scientist, who knows?

Moving to Bryn Mawr was a major turning point in my life. Not only did it change where I live but also who I know, what I do, and what I think is important. But those changes did not happen just because I had a different address. I participated in the change by making a conscious decision to be involved.

The impact of that involvement reaches beyond me. The Bugle is different, because I moved here. The schools and other things are altered because I met and was inspired by so many great people here is Bryn Mawr.

So, are you open to a turning point in your life? The BMNA is accepting candidates for their Board Elections on May 8. You never know, being the Treasurer or an Area Representative may be just the thing that connects you to a person or a cause that will change your life. Or maybe the life you change will not be your own.

-Woody Guthrie-

Spring hath sprung up all over! This is a time for new beginnings, fresh ideas (hey, stop be fresh!), and time to drop off your Festival of Garage Sales application. Can't wait to sell some of my junk..er.gently used items. Since my garage is right next to the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association's big sale, it can get wild!

They say it's your Earth Day!
With the approach of Earth Day in April, it's time to love your Mother Earth. For example, you might want to plant a little rain garden. I will screen the fine, locally produced documentary about Metro Blooms huge rain garden project to improve the water quality of Powderhorn Lake. The screening will take place April 23rd at Cuppa Java (7 PM).
The Bryn Mawr Garden Group is planning their first work day for April 28th at 10 AM in Downtown Bryn Mawr! All are welcome to pitch in on all the fun! There will the usual clean-ups of Bassett Creek scheduled around that date also. Be good to your mother and make it last awhile.

ATMs - now you see them
March was a wild month in Bryn Mawr as two separate businesses had their ATM's ripped out of their establishments. Apparently a bunch of professional thieves bashed in the door at Cuppa Java, wrapped the ATM with a chain and dragged it out. They work very quickly! They pulled off the same maneuver at the Bryn Mawr Mobil within the next week. At the Bryn Mawr Market, steps have been taken, with some tips from the police, to prevent further ATM thievery. Now the only thieves we have to worry about are the banks themselves!

A lasting memorial
It's been six months since the horrific shootings at Accent Sign. A couple of residents have been working on making lasting memorials to the victims of this tragedy.
Kathryn Kaatz and Pat Waddick have drawn up wonderful plans for a garden and meditative space adjacent to the Accent Sign building. A lot needs to fall in place before any of this can materialized, but I applaud the efforts of these two for their hard work and vision.

Local documentarian, Deacon Wamer, has produced a short documentary tribute to Keith Basinski, our much loved UPS driver who died during the shooting. As we go to press the film will be shown at the Harrison Community Center. If you didn't get a chance to view it, we will show it at future date, probably at Cuppa Java.

and furthermore
And Barbara Reich yells out to me as she gets in her car, "I'm sure glad you still write for the Bugle"! Well I sure needed that to finish this piece. Thank you Barb, and thanks to all y'all for your kind words. You are such good liars, but I love you!
Now go on out there and get set up for your sale and come on over and buy my stuff. See you in May and if you can't be good, be careful!

BMNA

Snow Removal Assistance

In late February, the BMNA sent an email notifying neighbors that we have volunteers ready and willing to assist with snow removal. These volunteers are not available to remove your snow for the entire season. They are available to assist neighbors who find themselves unable to remove their snow due to injury or illness.

This past snowfall, I received an email from a neighbor who needed assistance. I contacted the first person on my list of volunteers. He said he was available to help. The next morning, I received another email from this neighbor, thanking me and the volunteer for the assistance. She explained that this volunteer did not only shovel her snow, but he also brought and ice pick and removed the ice from her front steps.

I wanted to share this with all of you because it is such a beautiful example of neighbors taking care of each other.

If you would like to be added to my list of volunteers, please email pwcoordinator@comcast.net or call 612-239-1710.

Potluck and a Movie

April 11, 6:00-8:45
Bryn Mawr Elementary Cafeteria

Wirth Cooperative Grocery is aiming to bring Bryn Mawr families together over good food, community conversation, and a movie entitled 'Forks Over Knives' that explores our food system and how we can live healthier lives by moving away from the American diet of processed foods.

'Forks Over Knives' is a 2011 documentary that has been shown at several events around Minneapolis and in many more places all over the country. The documentary "examines the profound claim that most, if not all, of the degenerative diseases that afflict us can be controlled, or even reversed, by rejecting our present menu of animal-based and processed foods" (movie website). Even with the most advanced technology in the world, the United States still has soaring rates of obesity and diabetes and about half of us are taking at least one prescription drug. How do all of these pieces tie in to the food that we eat?

The Wirth Co-op will also discuss our recent successes and upcoming challenges to obtaining a store site and opening our doors to the Bryn Mawr, Harrison, and Near North communities. Currently, the co-op has over 125 members and is looking to grow to 400 members by opening day. With the recent hire of our project manager, the search for a permanent store site has been put on high speed. This coming year will see the most activity for the co-op yet. Our mission is to get the word out about what it means to be a co-op member and how Bryn Mawr residents can get involved in future plans.

Lastly, this event will be a potluck. Wirth Cooperative Grocery will supply fruit and yogurt as a dessert and drinks for the event and the rest will be provided by community members. Please join us for some or all of the event!

Need a truck?

Members of HourCar now own a Ford Ranger truck for all their hauling needs. In fact, we own two trucks – one parked in downtown Minneapolis (Nicollet Ave. and Franklin Ave., near Plymouth Congregational Church and Fratallone’s Ace Hardware) and the second in the Macalester-Groveland neighborhood of St. Paul.

The HourCar trucks rent is the same cost as member cars ($6-8/hour and $.25/mile) and trucks can be reserved online or by telephone.

Ford Ranger trucks are no longer made. So, join HourCar and drive a piece of automotive history!

Community Energy Services Gets a New Name

Since 2009, the Center for Energy and Environment (CEE) has worked in partnership with the City of Minneapolis to deliver the Community Energy Services (CES) Program to Minneapolis homeowners. We collaborated with neighborhoods across the city, helping people save money and energy and take the next steps towards making their homes more energy efficient. Over 5,000 households participated in CES and we couldn’t be more pleased with the feedback we’ve received on this program. “The experience was great,” said Bill from Longfellow. “I felt that I was doing something that will change how I consume energy and help me to save money going forward.”

This year the CES Program is merging with the Home Energy Squad (HES), which is also sponsored by CenterPoint Energy and Xcel Energy and delivered by CEE. The same great home energy visit, with the installation of energy saving materials, blower door test, insulation inspection, combustion safety tests, contractor list, rebates and financing information, will still be available to Minneapolis residents for $70, it’s just going to now be called the Home Energy Squad Enhanced visit instead of the Community Energy Services visit.

CEE will continue working with Minneapolis neighborhood groups to educate homeowners about energy savings and promote the home visit program city-wide. We look forward to meeting and helping thousands more homeowners in the years to come. If you’ve not yet had an opportunity to receive a home energy visit, check out our website www.mncee.org/hes-mpls and call 612-335-5874 to schedule one right away!

Drawing on Nature

formerly known as View From The Bridge

Daffodil, Tulip, Hyacinth, and Grape Hyacinth
April 2013, Fourth in a Series

Wondering when spring will truly begin this year? Spring arrives at the downtown Minneapolis Macy’s store for their annual flower show, themed “The Painted Garden”, March 24 through April 7, during store hours in their eighth floor auditorium. St. Paul’s Como Conservatory opens its spring flower show March 23. If you miss these annual events, look for outdoor bulb displays of neighborhood or Arboretum gardens. Accompanying the yellow, white and pink flowers of Forsythia, Star and Leonard Messel Magnolias are a variety of flowering bulbs such as Daffodil, Tulip, Hyacinth, and Grape Hyacinth. After foliage of spring blooming bulbs has emerged, a few actions can enhance flowering and may aid return blooms in subsequent years. Water plants during a dry spring. Carefully work light applications of timed-release fertilizer into soil around foliage, avoiding direct contact of fertilizer with foliage itself. Remove flower heads after blooming; but allow foliage to remain until shriveled and brown. Do not tie or braid leaves since their full surface area is required for most efficient collection of solar energy for use in subsequent year’s blooming. During summer dormancy however, spring blooming bulbs should remain fairly dry. Thus, they will do best in beds not heavily watered or bulbs should be temporarily removed until fall re-planting.

Daffodil (Narcissus species) Lily Family, 5” to 24” tall

Interchangeably called Daffodil or Narcissus, the flower consists of a cup-shaped tube known as a corona surrounded by a saucer-shaped cluster of petals and sepals. Both forms may be yellow, or the cup may be light yellow or white on a yellow “saucer”. Within the corona are the female pistil and male stamens topped with pollen-bearing anthers. At the base of the pistil is an ovary, the essential part of flowers that produces seed. The prominent ovary is a spherical form clearly visible below and outside the cluster of petals. Different hybrids are distinguished by varying flower forms. While most Daffodils bear a single flower; others bear multiple flowers per flower stem. The cup may be small or large, or extra large, known as a “trumpet”. The corona may be simple and smooth-edged or fancy with frilly edges and deeply divisions. The cluster of petals may be simple (single) or “double” with twice the number of petals, one layer opening atop the other. Most petal clusters are flat or cupped somewhat forward; other petal clusters reflex backwards. Some Daffodil hybrids are especially fragrant. The name Jonquil refers to specific species or hybrids that bear several flowers with strong scent and rounded petals. Some hybrids bear contrasting white petals and a red-rimmed corona. Foliage is generally green and narrow.

Under proper growing conditions including full sun, Daffodils will rebloom for many years. If flower size or total number of flowers has decreased over years of blooming, division may help restore plant vigor. After foliage has turned brown but while it is still visible, carefully dig up bulbs. Carefully remove bulb offsets and replant these miniature bulbs. Bulb rot is one of the rare diseases affecting Daffodils. Symptoms include non-sprouting or weak or disfigured leaves. Besides discarding bulbs with bruises or soft spots, maintain good drainage, do not over-water, and do not over-fertilizer. Daffodils are not typically disturbed by wildlife. Daffodils are very cold hardy, and in fact, flowering requires a period of cold temperatures.

Tulip (Tulipa species) Lily Family, 4” to 24” tall

The cup-shaped flowers of Tulip are available in colors of red, orange, yellow, white, pink, purple, and nearly black; and variegated combinations. Foliage is most often green, or blue-green, but like the flower, may also be variegated. Fancy Parrot Tulips bear deeply divided, frilly petals with variegated flower colors. Depending on annual weather conditions, local climate calendar, and variety, Tulips bloom sometime between April through May.

Two major types of Tulips are Species Tulips and Hybrid Tulips (also called “Dutch” or “Darwin” Tulips). Hybrid Tulips are tall and flashy, with rounded petals and large, prominent foliage. More closely resembling wild Tulips native to Turkey, Species Tulips are shorter and more reserved, with pointed petals, and thin foliage. Most importantly, whereas Hybrid Tulips generally return in subsequent years with fewer plants, fewer and smaller blooms, if they do not fade away completely after two or three years. Species Tulips are fairly reliable repeat bloomers with sometimes even more plants that bloom longer than do Hybrid Tulips. Online research reinforces what I’ve seen at Newton Triangle – where Species Tulips continue to bloom year after year.

From their origin in Turkey, the significance of Tulips rose within Netherlands (informally and historically known as Holland). Imported from Asia Minor to Europe in mid 1500s, wild Tulips were hybridized into the bold and varied forms embodying what most gardeners envision when they think of the flower. Interest in the exotic flower peaked during Holland’s Tulipomania between 1634 and 1637. Prices of a single tulip bulb were driven up to a price equivalent in today’s currency to tens of thousands of dollars, such that tulip bulb sales were monitored on the Amsterdam Stock Exchange. Within a year of record highs, prices crashed. During late World War II famine hardship titled by sufferers as “Hunger Winter”, some Dutch people resorted to eating tulip bulbs, which sometimes led to toxic poisoning. Dutch growers develop Hybrid Tulip seed to flowering bulbs over five to eight years, mating pollen of one flower’s six prominent stamens with a female stigma from another flower. Today, Netherlands is the world’s main Tulip producer.

Grape Hyacinth (Muscari species and cultivars) Asparagus Family, 4” to 12” tall

Originally from the Mediterranean regions of Europe, Asia, and Africa, Grape Hyacinth grows well in northern Europe and the United States. Resembling an upside-down bunch of grapes, Grape Hyacinth blooms in a spike-like cluster of flowers that expands as the flower matures. Colors range from pale blue to very dark blue as well as nearly blue-black, and white. Six tepals fuse together to form a small egg-shaped tube. Its foliage is grass-like. Like many of so-called minor bulbs, Grape Hyacinth often naturalizes – multiplying to form a ground cover. Some species and cultivars charm us with a pleasant fragrance. With respect to both planting design and cultural requirements, Grape Hyacinth is well suited for planting in meadows and woodlands, lawns, flower borders, and rock gardens. Flowers require full sun or light shade.

Hyacinth (Hyacinthus orientalis) Asparagus Family, 8” to 14” tall

Like its diminutive cousin described previously, Hyacinth blooms in a spike of a dozen to more than one-hundred flowers. Individual Hyacinth flowers have six spreading lobes that are fused at their base to form a funnel-like tube. Flower colors can be blue, white, yellow, pink, red, or purple. One possible source of the flower’s name is the Greek mythical victim Hyacinthos who was killed by a discus during a fight between the gods Apollo and Zephyr. Poetically, the myth describes a flower springing from his spilled blood. Hyacinth is best known for its fragrance and its lush early blooms. Honeybees pollinate the flowers and are rewarded by flower nectar.

Bulb gardens featuring Tulip, Daffodil, Hyacinth and Grape Hyacinth, in various combinations, are available from a variety of retailers. Winter’s end is in sight, with gradually warming temperatures, increasing day length, melting snow, and occasional rainfall instead of rush-hour snowstorms.

Don't throw it out! Come to one of Hennepin County Environmental Services' Fix-It Clinics and volunteers will help you repair and reuse them. Hennepin County, as part of its waste reduction efforts, is asking residents to sort through basements, closets and garages for clothing and household items that need repair. At the Fix-It Clinics, skilled volunteers will help you learn to disassemble, troubleshoot and fix your broken household items and electronics, clothing in need of mending, and more. Saturday, April 13: 10 a.m. – 2 p.m. South Minneapolis Housing Fair, Minneapolis Sports Center at YWCA

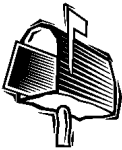

2121 E. Lake St., Minneapolis
Saturday, May 11: Noon – 3 p.m.

Saturday, June 15: Noon – 4 p.m.
Bloomington Center for the Arts, 1800 W. Old Shakopee Road, Bloomington

The Fix-It Clinics are designed to reduce the amount of stuff that gets thrown in the trash, teach valuable troubleshooting and basic repair skills, and build community connections.

Volunteer fixers – or “Fix-It Coaches” – are needed to make these events successful. Please volunteer if you have skills in soldering, electronics and electrical repair, sewing, woodworking or general tinkering

The clinics are first-come, first-served – there's no pre-registration. Bring in an item and you'll be helped by a volunteer with repair skills. It must be carry-in (no oversized items). Please bring any tools that might be helpful, a digital camera to document the disassembly, and small boxes or bags to organize and carry home parts. These events are family-friendly.

Who Let The Moms Out?

Eight Bryn Mawr Moms on the Search for Good Books and Food

The Lynn, at 50th and Bryant, opened last October. We reserved a table for six, so we were seated in the very cozy dining room in the back of the restaurant. (The café in the front requires no reservations and has a different menu) Although there was a large party and two other tables seated in the dining room, we could still hear each other; a big plus for us!

We were a bit surprised at the slim number of offerings on the menu. Because there were not many starters and only 6 entree choices, we parted from our usual tradition of ordering lots of appetizers to share. We did split salads to begin, trying three. The beet and goat cheese salad was spectacular, both in presentation and taste. The yellow and red beets had been cut into squares, forming a checkerboard on the plate. There was a mixed review on the mushroom and potato tourte (served with salad). Both agreed the flavor was great, but perhaps the pastry was a bit dry, or needed to be thinner. The mixed greens were standard fare.

We tried three of the six entrees. All were delicious. Four in our group had the New York Strip steak with kale and mashed potatoes. The steaks were cooked perfectly, and the kale and potatoes tasty. We give a special shout out for the au jus, a delicious wine reduction. The pork tenderloin stuffed with apricots, served on farro with Brussels sprouts got a rave review, and the chicken with roasted veggies was a favorite.

We tried two of the desserts; homemade sorbet, including blood orange, coconut and pineapple, and the plate of cookies. The truffles drew the biggest gasps. The wine was a bit expensive, although you can get half carafes. There were a few offered by the glass for $7, most by the glass were $10.

Minneapolis has so many wonderful little venues to choose from; we are sure this will be a neighborhood favorite.

The Bryn Mawr Bugle is an open-forum newspaper published by the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association. Content is based entirely on volunteer submissions which may be emailed to bugle@bmna.org. Articles and letters to the editor will be printed at the discretion of the Editor. The Bryn Mawr Bugle is published every month except January. Distribution is free to Bryn Mawr residents; copies are also available at the Bryn Mawr Market, Bryn Mawr Mobile and Cuppa Java. Subscriptions are $21 per year. Opinion articles represent the opinion of the writer, not necessarily those of the Bryn Mawr Neighborhood Association or the Editor of the Bugle. The Bryn Mawr Bugle will print letters to the editor as space allows. Letters may be edited for length without altering the letter writer's message. Letters must be signed by the person who wrote them. Under the law, letter writers, like journalists, may not commit libel, be obscene, reveal names of juveniles accused of crime, invade personal space, or incite to riot.
